Paul A. Cusolito lost control of his car while traveling south on Rt 38 in Wilmington Square on Monday just after noontime. His car struck a parked car belonging to Sandra M. Davis and then careened across Main St crashing into the storefront of Wilmington Center News. Nobody in the store was injured, but the dog which had been sleeping beneath the window was shaken up. Cusolito was taken to Winchester Hospital by the Wilmington Fire Department.

Cable board eyes I-Net

by Jeff Nazzaro

Scanning the audience of some 50 residents gathered in the Town Hall Auditorium Tuesday night, the Wilmington Cable TV Advisory Task Force had to be pleased - there were at least 10 times as many people present for the task force's second "ascertainment" hearing as there were the first time around, last September.

And the crowd, representing a wide cross-section of Wilmington's population, from young to old, working class to professional, did not hold back on providing input to the task force, which is in the first stage of a process that should yield a new contract between the town and Continental Cablevision for cable television service. Several letters offering suggestions were also read into the record by Task Force Chairman Charles Gilbert.

The hot topic of the night was technology, though many offered input on programming and billing and most gave kudos to WCTV, Wilmington's community access cable television station.

Talk of technology centered around the I-Net, or Institution Network, which would link, via cable, town government and school buildings together, allowing for government and school conferencing as well as townwide broadcasts of curriculum and messages.

Continental has been widely criticized in town for not installing the I-Net, though the company did meet contractual agreements by wiring the town for the service. This time around, residents and task force members seem determined to get an agreement for the full I-Net service into a contract.

With that in mind, many town officials brought their own wish lists to the hearing.

Fire Chief Dan Stewart asked that the task force propose that Continental install a host of services and accompanying hardware, including a "character generator" for the fire station. Such a device would allow fire fighters to type emergency and other messages directly onto WCTV programming. Stewart also asked that the department be given the ability to "cut into" all programming, including that on major networks, with messages during severe emergencies.

Stewart also wants the I-Net, to be able to broadcast to, and receive messages from, schools, public buildings, and even large industrial companies, like Zeneca Resins, with which the department enjoys a stellar cooperative relationship.

Such requests highlight the services that the town - public and private sectors included - are looking for from a new agreement with Continental.

And with the prospect of a 10-year pact with Continental looming, these requests are not limited to existing technology - people are well aware that they have no idea what will be possible even five years from now.

"I think the only thing that's constant in this world is change and I think we have to keep up with it," summed up Selectmen Chairman Diane Allan, who serves on the task force as the selectmen's liaison.

Along those lines, Stewart said he would like to work closely with Continental to explore beneficial technologies that either Continental or the town may not be aware of.

Still, citizens' concerns were more focused on the technology everyone knows about, but the town is still not receiving.

Public Health Director Gregory Erickson, who pays for his own internet account at Town Hall, fired up the task force when he told of how he is able to communicate via electronic mail, or e-mail, with persons across the globe, but not across Wilmington.

Said Chandler Road resident Bradley Stevenson, "This technology exists today and Continental needs to make the commitment to provide it to residents and town officials in Wilmington."

On a programming level, many Wilmington residents can see ESPN2, but not in Wilmington. The sports channel gets the most requests from residents for new programming, while others expressed dismay over the bumping of C-SPAN from the town's basic cable package.

Billing matters were also raised, with some wondering why there is still no senior discount for Continental subscribers in Wilmington, though there was a rate increase to pay for such.

"Don't take [money] from me if you're not giving it to [seniors in Wilmington]," said resident Tom Convery of Agostino Drive.

Others expressed dislike for Continental's "prospective" billing method, as Assistant Town Manager and task force secretary Jeff Hull put it, where customers pay up front for services.

Also raised was the possibility that Continental may be moving its office from Wilmington to Chelmsford. Hull warned that a company without an office in town may not be capable of providing the same level of service to customers as one with a structural presence in the town.

Following the ascertainment period, the task force will submit a request for proposal from Continental. After the proposal is received, the task force will negotiate a contract with the company, turning the contract over to selectmen for either renewal or preliminary denial.

Educational Summit Tuesday evening

by Jeff Nazzaro

With the town budget season in full swing, parents of students in Wilmington schools are mobilizing to make sure the schools receive top priority.

The latest and biggest extension of this effort will take place Tuesday, Feb. 13 at 7:00 p.m. in the Shawsheen School cafeteria, where that school's Parent Advisory and Student Advisory councils will host an educational summit.

Organizers are pulling out all the stops in a short but aggressive publicity campaign for the summit. Parents from across the town have been called on, through PAC announcements, fliers and letters to the editor, to attend and participate, and legislators, members of the board of selectmen and the school committee have all been invited and said to have confirmed attendance.

Two notable absences will be those of Town Manager Michael Caira and Superintendent of Schools Dr. Geraldine O'Donnell, both of whom have prior commitments. But organizers have not let the inability of the town's and the schools' chief administrators deter them, opting not to reschedule. Instead, they will focus on swaying selectmen and school board members, who Caira and O'Donnell, respectively, answer to.

Last Monday, parents used Town Manager Michael Caira's annual budget presentation to selectmen as a sounding board to not only express concerns about the schools, but also to plug the summit. Caira has clearly made education a priority, increasing the school budget for Wilmington by $876,000 in his fiscal year 1997 proposal, to go along with a record $1.2 million hike for FY-96.

But parents want to keep the pressure on. The tone at the budget presentation and in letters to this newspaper since has shown that parents view these budget increases as a good start, but not nearly enough. Overcrowded classrooms, aging textbooks and outdated technology are all pointed to as chief concerns.

While cooperation between the municipal government and school officials has flourished during Caira's tenure as town manager, PAC members are looking to bridge a perceived three-way gap between town government, the schools, and parents. That's where the summit comes in.

"We're going to try to get all of us together into one mind-set and focus our energy where it should be," said Shawsheen PAC President Bonny Smith, who will be moderating the summit. "And the kids are going to benefit. "We're trying to do this together. We do have some questions and these parents do expect answers," Smith continued, stressing that the operative word in describing the summit should be "together," following in the direction the town manager and superintendent, and selectmen and school committee have taken.

"We're trying to all work together," Smith said. "I know our selectmen and school committee have come leap years in working together."

Smith said she will open the summit with a brief "welcoming statement," followed by short statements from PAC leaders of each Wilmington school, the high school excepted. Questions from parents will then be posed to officials on what Smith called a "rotating basis," so that no one person will field the bulk of queries.

Smith will try to control stumping from the politicians, and the emotions of parents, viewing the latter as perhaps the bigger challenge.

"It's a passionate topic when you're talking about kids," she said. "We all truly hope that it turns out positive and we come away feeling good that we're moving in a forward direction."

Cocaine found at high school

by Jeff Nazzaro

A 15-year-old Wilmington female was arrested at the high school Monday and charged with possession of class "B" and "D" substances after acting assistant principal Michael Nee discovered small quantities of what appeared to be cocaine and marijuana in the girl's pocket book, according to Wilmington Police Inspector Patrick King.

King said Nee conducted the search based on "information he obtained."

Also found were three pills of unknown contents. All the confiscated drugs have been sent to the State Police drug lab for analysis.

King, who made the arrest along with Lt. Robert Spencer, said the drugs seized were of a very small, "personal use" quantity. King said there is not a big problem with cocaine at the high school.

Buckle up for safety, shot at a mug

by Karen Miethe

It's such a little thing, but it could save you or your child's life.

Wilmington Police Chief Bobby Stewart has announced that the Wilmington Police Department will be participating in "Child Passenger Safety Awareness Week" from Feb. 12-16.

To mark the week, police will be out at Stadium Plaza on Main Street handing out coffee mugs to drivers seen wearing their safety belts. The mugs were provided by the Governor's Highway Safety Bureau, and the program is part of the Middlesex County Traffic Safety Program.

"We're hoping the mugs will work as an incentive for people to buckle up," Wilmington Police Officer Joseph Harris said.

According to Stewart, "Injuries from motor vehicles crashes are one of the leading killers of children younger than 14. More than 70 percent of the unrestrained deaths could be prevented if children were properly secured in safety seats. It is essential that parents buckle their children into safety seats every trip."

It is estimated by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) that as many as 50,000 injuries and 532 deaths could have been avoided in 1994 if every child under the age of five was correctly secured in a child safety seat.

Parents should be aware of the various types of seats, such as infant, toddler/convertible or booster seat, on the market, which one best suits the needs of their child.

"Parents have a tendency to graduate the child out of a safety seat and into a lap/shoulder belt too soon," warns Harris.

Children should use safety seats until they weigh 40 pounds, and after that, they should move into a booster seat, until the vehicle's lap and shoulder belt stays low on the hips and doesn't stretch across the stomach. The shoulder belt should not cross the face or neck.

All 50 states have laws that require the use of child safety restraints for infants and young children. Parents found in violation of this law can be faced with fines, points against their driving records, or more serious charges. An estimated 2,655 children ages four and under were saved by safety seat between 1982 and 1994.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration has set up a toll free number parents can call with any consumer questions about child safety seats. The number is 1-800-424-9393.

The Middlesex County Traffic Safety Program, a more local project, can be contacted at 508-458-7283 for more information.

It's YOUR Money

BY JOYCE BRISBOIS
Certified Public Accountant

BEFORE YOU RETIRE

It's smart to get necessary paperwork out of the way well before you leave your job. If you qualify, visit your Social Security office as much as three months in advance so that benefits can start promptly. It's especially important to have Medicare coverage in place; you'll want to investigate Medigap plans, too. (If you're not yet 65, your company health benefits can be extended under the federal COBRA law for 18 months.)

Whether you're retiring or just moving to another job, you're entitled to every dollar you paid into the company's 401(k) or 403(b) plan - plus the employer's contribution if you're vested. don't take out the cash; roll it over directly to an IRA, or the company will have to deduct 20 percent for taxes.

It's tempting to look at a 401(k) payout as a windfall - most young people do - but the money is taxable and, for those under 59 1/2, subject to a 10 percent penalty.

Before you retire, talk over your financial options with the folks who have the knowhow you need at

Editorial

Think big

by Jeff Nazzaro

Members of Wilmington's Shawsheen School Parent Advisory and Student Advisory councils are on the right track in hosting their "educational summit," and parents of children in all schools would be wise to attend. The aim of the summit is to unite parents and link them with town and school officials in the pursuit of better schools and thus better educational opportunities for children in a public setting. The admirability of this goal could never be understated.

To be sure, the town, behind Town Manager Michael Caira, and the school system, led by Superintendent Geraldine O'Donnell, have forged a close and prosperous working relationship, culminating last year in the reopening of the Boutwell School without aid of a Prop. 2 1/2 override. And this year, Caira has maintained his commitment to the schools, proposing another $876,000 in increased spending.

But clearly it is not enough. At least not for most parents. Throwing $1 million or $2 million into the huge pit that has been dug by educational neglect will hardly solve the problem. So what will?

Taxpayers in Wilmington do their share not just locally, but at the state and federal levels as well. Unfortunately, the burden of educating children falls almost squarely on the shoulders of the municipality. Parents and officials should use the opportunity of the educational summit created by the Shawsheen School PAC and SAC to extend their campaign beyond Wilmington - it is the only way that real change in educational commitment can be affected.

Parents in Wilmington should enlist the support of parents in Tewksbury, who are currently undergoing similar problems with school overcrowding. Only by defying norms, rules that say a town must pay to educate its own community, can the real money, the bucks held by the feds, be accessed and used for that which is most important - the education of our children. A national campaign initiated by concerned parents in Wilmington and Tewksbury could lead to a wholesale upheaval of current policy and fix permanently all problems in our educational system.

A quick look at the beautiful new schools in Lowell will highlight the buying power of the federal government and should cause some to say "hey, why can't we get that?" The answer is because those schools were built on grant monies doled out according to need. And while Wilmington and Tewksbury will never be as "needy" as Lowell, shouldn't the relative nature of "need" be eliminated in favor of an across-the-board commitment to providing every child in the United States with top-notch facilities?

Remember those bumper stickers "Won't it be a great day when the schools have all the money they need and the Air Force has to hold a bake sale to buy a bomber?" Nobody has to hold a bake sale to buy anything in this country. There is enough money to go around. It's just a question of where you decide to put it. The Town of Wilmington has made education a priority and it still is not enough. It's time someone with a little more power listened to the complaints of the parents of our children.

Letters to the editor

We are clearly in a crisis

Dear Larz:

I am writing this letter with deep concern in regard to the overcrowding of our schools in the Town of Wilmington.

For example, the Shawsheen School currently has 662 students enrolled, 27 children per classroom and climbing for next year. What is going to be done about this situation? It is really unfortunate to see how the education of our children is being compromised!

Classroom space is limited to the point that it was once considered reasonable to use the gym for needed classroom space.

Space is not the only area that is inadequate, we are also in need of the basic school supplies, as well as updated technology. Why should our children go without the fundamentals in their education because our town government will not resolve these serious problems?

We are clearly in a crisis and need results now, not weeks or months from now. No more committees to reevaluate and procrastinate. The facts are clear and have been for a long time.

The Shawsheen School is inviting all parents to an "educational summit" on Feb. 13, 1996 at 7:00 p.m. to discuss this with our town leaders.

We need to act now!

Terry Rego

Invest in our children

Dear Larz:

Wilmington, a small farm community with people working together - steadily growing and maturing into ... what? Buyer beware, the message Wilmington is creating with homeowners. Images of a safe/secure town with a great education system shattered soon after you've settled in. Inadequate municipal building space, outdated technology, and no money to fix it.

The world is demanding so much more of the United States today. To be competitive, Americans need to master not only reading, writing, and arithmetic skills, they also need to be able to successfully communicate, solve problems, respect others, and be responsible for themselves and others.

Our school system is eroding and needs your support. Children will not learn to be world competitors stuffed in substandard classrooms, sandwiched in a classroom with 30 others, or not learning about telecommunications (i.e. internet) until they get into the workplace.

The children in this community are our future, an investment in them is an investment in yourself!

As a community, we need to work together and invest our time and money into our hometown.

Mrs. Allan did not vote for Caira

Dear Larz:

During her questioning at Michael McCoy's ABCC hearing in Boston last week, Diane Allan denied she held any ill-will against McCoy for his vote to reappoint Michael Caira as town manager in November 1993.

Her response "there were five signatures on that contract" would lead you to believe she also endorsed Caira, which of course is her intention. The truth, however, is that Mrs. Allan did not vote for Caira's reappointment. She abstained, saying she needed more time to evaluate his performance.

Mr. Caira was then reappointed by the three-vote majority of Mr. Cain, Mr. Bruce and Mr. McCoy. The board then offered Caira a contract, which he accepted.

And yes, Mrs. Allan signed that contract, because the reappointment was a done deal and not signing the contract would have gained her nothing.

Listen carefully to what Mrs. Allan says, and just as carefully to what she doesn't say. She doesn't say, "I supported Caira's reappointment." She doesn't say, "McCoy and I were on the same side of that issue." She merely says she signed the contract.

Go to the library and look up the newspaper coverage of that vote. Ask WCTV for a copy of that meeting's tape. You will see that what Diane Allan says today does not correspond to her written quotes or videotaped remarks.

But then, Mrs. Allan doesn't attach too much importance to standing by her own words, anyway. If she did, Mr. McCoy would have his liquor license today.

Kathi Gillis

[Diane Allan's statement regarding the signing of Town Manager Michael Caira's contract came in a telephone interview last Tuesday night, not at the ABCC hearing--Ed.]

Well, it's [now] three years later

Dear Larz:

We became familiar with the space needs problem at the Wilmington elementary schools four years ago. Due to overcrowded classrooms, our daughter was bussed from the Shawsheen School district to the Woburn Street School for kindergarten.

We joined many other parents to become involved with the town's search for a solution to the schools' space issue. At that time, it was determined that the most educationally sound decision was to reopen the Boutwell School, although it would only provide two to three years of relief.

Well, it is three years later. The Boutwell School is finally open and as our son attends kindergarten there, we know firsthand that it is providing a wonderful learning atmosphere for Wilmington's preschool and kindergarten students.

By centralizing the kindergarten program at the Boutwell, it did not prevent several crisis situations from arising at the Shawsheen and Wildwood schools, such as partitioned classrooms in the gymnasium, and classes with 35-40 students per teacher.

It has not changed the student/teacher ratio for our daughter's grade level, which is rapidly moving towards 30 children per class. With our ever increasing elementary population, it does not seem as if the Boutwell will take us much farther in our quest for classroom space, perhaps due to its two-year delay in opening.

Since the Boutwell School has been operational, we have not heard much community discussion about the space needs problem at the elementary schools. After attending the past selectmen's meeting, we are glad to hear that this issue is now back on the agenda.

Whether you choose to call it a space needs crisis or a space needs problem, we would like to remind Wilmington residents that it still does exist in our community. And, it is our elementary children that have to face it everyday in their classroom, lunchroom, and specialty programs.

For their sake, we hope the town will make a commitment to solving this problem in a timely manner that focuses on quality education. We urge those with concerns on this issue to attend the educational summit at the Shawsheen School cafeteria on Feb. 13, 1996 at 7:00 p.m.

We hope to see you there.

Sincerely,
Denise Farnsworth

Attend the Summit on Feb 13

Dear Larz:

I have lived in Wilmington for eight years but have only been in the school system for one-and-a-half years.

Being a new mother to the school, I wasn't sure what the PAC meetings were about and how my attendance could matter much. The PAC meetings turned out to be a wonderful source of information, ideas and a connection to the school.

If there are parents out there who want to know what's what at their child's school, or better yet, want to get involved but are not sure of how, go to a PAC meeting. Your attendance is important!

Attendance is what is needed for the upcoming educational summit that is going to be held on Tuesday, Feb. 13 at 7:00 p.m. in the Shawsheen Elementary School cafeteria.

Elected officials will be there and they must know the parents expect action now!

The more parents there, the stronger the message: We parents of Wilmington will no longer sit on the sidelines waiting for promises of a solution to the overcrowding problem to be carried out! We demand more for our children and more from them!

Sincerely,
Linda Golden

Thanks for the Face Off

Dear Larz:

We would like to take this opportunity to send a special thank you to the Wilmington Arena Authority, Rocco's Restaurant, Jamie Pote, WCTV, Mike Stuart, Mark Lopez, the Wilmington Police Department and the Wilmington Fire Department.

Your support, encouragement and enthusiasm is greatly appreciated. The team is truly inspired by your continued generosity.

Our system is going town the drain

Dear Larz:

When did "O Little Town of Wilmington" turn into L.A. Law? Everyone is going to court.

Maybe we should take the planning board to court, or better still, to the polls! Again is this the only time the people of Wilmington's majority vote counts at the polls?

We have a handful of unelected people with the power to stop families from building. Do we need this kind of government?

Our constitutional right is to labor our land. Well Mr. Williams is trying to give his kids a chance with the greatest labor of all, the labor of love.

Our system has gone down the drain. Maybe that's where it belongs because it sure stinks.

Many people have voiced this same opinion to me on the street, in stores and church parking lots.

Raffi & Swanson receives Toxics Use Reduction grant

The Toxics Use Reduction Institute (TURI) at UMass, Lowell has announced its fourth Annual Industry Matching Grants Awards. Raffi and Swanson, Inc. of Eames Street, Wilmington, was among the four Massachusetts companies awarded a total of $50,000 for projects that will facilitate the development and use of techniques that reduce the use of toxic chemicals or the generation of toxic byproducts in their industries. Raffi and Swanson Inc., 100 Eames Street, Wilmington, was awarded $20,000 for using toxic use reduction techniques to replace volatile organic solvents in batch cleaning processes with semi-aqueous or aqueous cleaners. The company will work with the Surface Cleaning Laboratory at TURI to test the effectiveness of the new cleaning compounds before transferring this technology to the plant. A division of High Street Associates, Boston, Raffi and Swanson manufactures inks, specialty coatings, and adhesives.

"These companies have been proactive in their efforts to develop innovative technologies in toxics use reductions or use existing technology in innovative ways," said TRUI's Elizabeth Harriman, grants program manager. All of the companies will produce information that can be transferred to other firms in their industries, she said.

Grants were also awarded to

Malden Mills Industries Inc., Lawrence for reducing acetic acid in the textile dyeing process and for producing a report on Design for the Environment for textile manufacturing systems ($20,000); M/A-COM Inc., Lowell, for implementation of a Design for the Environment Program in the electronics industry ($5,000); and Commonwealth Sprague Capacitor Inc., North Adams, for implementation and documentation of a new aqueous degreasing process for electronic components' manufacturing ($5,000).

Sixteen companies have participated in the matching grants program since 1993. "Each year the Matching Grants Program reaffirms our conviction that there are plenty of firms with great ideas for developing environmentally friendly technologies," said Kenneth Geiser, Institute director. All Mass. businesses and industrial or commercial facilities that produce, use or generate toxic chemicals are eligible. Funding for the program comes from a special trust fund for toxics use reduction programs created under the state's Toxic Use Reduction Act (TURA) of 1989.

The Toxics Use Reduction Institute is a multidisciplinary research, education and policy center established at UMass Lowell under the state's landmark Toxics Use Reduction Act. The Institute sponsors and conducts research, organizes education and training programs, and provides technical support to promote reduction in the use of toxic chemicals or the generation of toxic chemicals byproducts in Mass. industry and commerce.

Building on a 100 year tradition of excellence in higher education, UMass, Lowell offers its 11,000 graduate and undergraduate students a comprehensive range of programs in the colleges of Arts and Sciences, Education, Engineering, Fine Arts, Health Professions, and Management. In seeking to make quality education accessible to all, the University has increased its commitment to meeting students' demonstrated financial need.

AMETEK has record year

Ametek Inc. (NYSE:AME) has announced that its 1995 sales and earnings set a second consecutive year of record performance. For 1995 Ametek earned $43.8 million, or $1.31 per share from continuing operations, a 32 percent increase in per share earnings and an all time record. Operating income for 1995 increased 19 percent to $89.3 million on sales of $837.5 million; both were new records. This compares to 1994 earnings of $36.6 million, or $.99 per share on sales of $774.7 million, restated for the sale of the Microfoam division.

Fourth quarter 1995 operating income and income from continuing operations increased 19 percent to $21.8 million and $10.8 million, respectively; earnings per share increased 27 percent to $.33 per share on sales of $201.9 million. This compares to earnings from continuing operations of $.91 million, or $.26 per share, on sales of $190.2 million for the same quarter of 1994. The fourth quarter of 1994 also included $1.2 million of income from discontinued operations, or four cents per share, which increased net income to $.30 per share.

Walter E. Blankley, chairman and chief executive officer, said "Our plan to build shareholder value produced record growth in sales, operating income and earnings per share in 1995. Each of our three operating groups achieved increased sales and earnings for 1995 resulting in a second consecutive year of record performance. We have further enhanced our operating performance through our financial strategy - including lower interest expense, and ongoing share repurchases which now exceed 25 percent of our shares outstanding since March 1994. We are positioned for growth and a third consecutive year of record performance in 1996."

Frank S. Hermance, executive vice president and chief operating officer, said, "In 1995, EMG sales increased nine percent to $372 and operating profit was up six percent to $48.8 million, compared to 1994. In 1995 EMG capitalized on its global market position to grow and increase market share. This was a difficult year in the U.S. floorcare market, fierce competition in the retail market created winners and losers among our customers and this drove the market to low end product price points.

"During the fourth quarter of 1995 EMG reported flat sales of $88.7 million with an operating profit decline of nine percent to $11.5 million due to these same market conditions as well as the cost of introducing new products and higher material costs in our Italian motor operations.

"Demand in Europe was good in 1995, although it was less robust than the prior year, and we have gained market share. Sales for 1995 from the Italian operations were up about 25 percent and operating profits increased more than 15 percent, with no significant currency translation effects.

"We expect EMG sales and operating margins to increase in 1996. We will continue to support EMG's growth strategy with investments in plant capacity and new products, and by expanding in Asia and Europe through a focus on emerging markets and the integrated vacuum producers. We expect to be producing vacuum motor components in a new operation of Reynosa, Mexico, by the third quarter. This and other investments in the U.S. and in Europe, and a new motor operation in the Czech Republic that we are evaluating, we designed to reduce manufacturing costs and penetrate new markets. We have also developed some alternative strategies, including a joint venture, that could move forward our timetable for motor production in Asia.

Massbank fourth quarter earnings up

MassBank Corp., the holding company for MassBank for Savings, has reported net income for the fourth quarter of 1995 of $2,247,000 or $0.81 per share compared to net income of $2,163,000, or $0.76 per share for the same quarter of 1994.

For the year ended December 31, 1995, the Company reported net income of $8,759,000, or $3.15 per share ($3.12 per share on a fully diluted basis) compared to net income of $8,185,000 or $2.84 per share earned in 1995. This is the third consecutive year that MassBank has achieved record breaking results in net income earnings per share, return on average realized equity and dividends paid to shareholders. Return on realized equity increased to 10.81% for 1995, up from 10.62% for 1994. Cash dividends paid to shareholders increased to $0.73 per share in 1995 up 21.7% over the previous year.

Chuck Karalekas named Associate of the Month

Chuck Karalekas, a sales associate for Fastener Supply Corporation in Reading has been named Associate of the Month. Chuck's continuing efforts have resulted in a great year for the company. We would like to congratulate him on a job well done.

Chuck lives in Wilmington with his wife Georgia and his children, Athena, Anthony and Andrea.

Walpole Woodworkers featured "Old House"

Fans of the popular PBS program This Old House will recognize a local company's contribution to this season's project in Salem. Walpole Woodworkers, with local show-grounds in Walpole, Wilmington, Framingham and East Falmouth designed and built a custom historic fence and gate for the front of the property, and the program aired on WGBH January 25 and 27, details on the hanging of an entrance gate.

The show's producers, WGBH Boston used Walpole Woodworkers exclusively since 1978 on This Old House because of their reputation for quality and skill in designing fences to complement a wide range of homes and environments.

Over the years, the company has installed fencing and gates for both The Victory Garden and This Old House programs on homes of virtually every style and era, from antique colonials and farmhouses to Victorians and inner city rehab projects.

Retraining for the switch

Former defense industry professionals make the switch to consumer products.

Textron Defense Systems and Analog Devices, both based in Wilmington, were industrial partners in an engineer retraining program which took place at Tufts University's College of Engineering.

The Mixed Signal Re-Training Program was launched last spring by Tufts and a team of local defense and microchip companies to help defense engineers, whose jobs were lost or in jeopardy due to cuts in defense spending, reorient their careers to consumer and industrial products.

In addition to Textron and Analog, the industrial partners are Analog Corp. in Wakefield; Loral Infrared and Imaging Systems in Lexington; and Raytheon Co. in Lexington.

Seven engineers participated in the 32 week program. Participants used their engineering and computer science experience to learn how to design and manufacture mixed signal integrated circuits (microchips), which are used for high performance audio/video systems, multimedia hardware and a wide range of other products.

Each participant received free tuition and a stipend and was teamed with a mentor and an industrial partner.

Secret to attracting birds to your backyard

by Hugh Wiberg
Prior to 1972, Cardinals were very rarely seen in Wilmington and Tewksbury. Then, in the mid 70's, for reasons ornithologists are still trying to understand, three common southern and central USA bird species expanded their range into New England. The three are cardinals, mockingbirds, and tufted titmice. The two most commonly ascribed to theories for this avian invasion are (1) we are in a 30-35 year weather cycle in which the average winter temperatures here in the northeast are several degrees warmer, on average, than what is considered normal, and (2) the number of households in New England putting out food for the birds has more than doubled in the last quarter century. Where food becomes available, wildlife, including many bird species, tend to expand their traditional ranges. Today these three newcomers can survive over winters as far north as Bangor, Maine and central New Hampshire.

Another "southerner" being reported with increasing frequency here in Massachusetts is the Carolina wren, a species very rarely seen hereabouts prior to 1990. We had a single Carolina wren at our feeders here on Middlesex Avenue in No. Wilmington up until two weeks ago, when he (she?) disappeared for no apparent reason. I have seen a Cooper's hawk in the neighborhood off and on since November, and I can't help but wonder if "our" wren may not have become that hawk's lunch one day. It's a jungle out there!

If you do not have a Cardinal or two coming to your yard, here is a suggestion that, with a little patience, may work for you. Cardinals are, mostly but not entirely, ground feeders. George Webster on Andover Street has a male cardinal coming regularly to his feeder, which is about five feet above the ground. The two cardinals in our backyard have never been spotted on one of the above ground feeders. Here's what to do: At about 4:00 p.m., scatter a handful of sunflower seeds on the ground near some low shrubs.

Repeat this process every day at about the same time. Most of the squirrels have gone home by then and, since cardinals like to eat just before dusk, you'll have a good chance of attracting them if you stay with it daily. Once the cardinal(s) find the seed, and observe that it will be there at the same time every afternoon, you can expect them to reappear like clockwork every day.

Unusual bird sightings in Wilmington in January included a single mockingbird in Ruth Zinn's yard on Chestnut Street, a Carolina wren at Diane Fielding's suet feeder on Hopkins Street, and three wild turkeys on Chestnut Street out near the Burlington line.

Conspicuous by their absence this winter are purple finches. This is the first time in 30 years we have not seen purple finches in the yard. I have heard from others that this pretty finch is just not around in any numbers this winter. I'll check with Mass. Audubon to see if they can offer an explanation.

One disappointing note: soon after the local supermarket had a serious run on beef suet after last month's column, they raised the price from .59 to .79 a pound. Not nice! I guess this is an example of "supply and demand." And to think, 30 years ago suet was considered junk, and was thrown away.

Wilmington Pet Shop at 634 Main Street has 50 pound bags of sunflower seed on sale for $12.95. That's just 26 cents a pound - much less expensive than buying the five pound bags at $2.59 a bag.

Our flock of at least 50 goldfinches is very much in evidence every day. We hope they'll stay all winter so we can watch the males change to their brilliant yellow plumage about mid April. That, along with the peepers singing their evening song, signals the arrival of early spring. That will happen before you know it!

Call me at 658-5832 evenings if you see an unusual feathered visitor in your yard. Has anyone seen an evening grosbeak, pine siskin, or redpoll this winter? I'm hearing reports of sightings of all of these occasional Canadian visitors out in Central Massachusetts.

Back to you in March.

Wilmington

The Fourth of July Committee proposed to undertake some renovation and addition work on Fourth of July Headquarters on Middlesex Avenue if voters approve the necessary warrant article at the upcoming town meeting.

Spokesman Steve Berghaus told selectmen that his group was concerned about the poor planning that went into the 27 home subdivision called "Bedell Estates" off Chestnut Street.

Wilmington Democrats, gathered in caucus selected 10 representatives to attend the Democratic Convention scheduled for May 17 in Springfield.

They included Bob Peterson, Tony Accardi, Bill Gustus, Aldo Caira, Dan Wandell, Elaine Hachey, Vera Pozzi, Pat Duggan, Barbara Larson, and Joan O'Rourke; alternates John Tscouleas and Susan Donovan.

Scott Brennan, Christopher Nolan, Matthew Callahan, Carla DeSantis, Laura Desmond, Michael Edwards, Brian Harris and Jennifer Bowen were among those named to the honor roll for the first term at the West Intermediate School.

Eight Wilmington residents submitted applications for the dog officer position left vacant by the resignation of Joseph Balestrieri.

Tewksbury Camera & Computer

1215 Main Street (Claddagh Place) Tewksbury, MA 01876
(508) 851-9638

These days, it seems that everyone develops film... drug stores, grocery stores, department stores, nearly every place you shop. But, when your pictures don't come back the way you expect them to... who do you talk to? Who'll tell you what went wrong? How to fix it? If you brought your film to Tewksbury Camera & Computer, you'd get those answers from the owner, Brenda Freitas.

Brenda's background is in professional photography. Long before she opened her business in 1981, she was taking photographs. So now, if you have questions about equipment, technique, or anything else, she's able, and more than happy, to answer them.

Tewksbury Camera & Computer carries camera and video equipment and supplies, all kinds of film (even 8mm and other hard-to find types), Apple/Macintosh computers and accessories - new and used, they also rent how-to video tapes on various computer programs. They do enlargements, framing and laminating, and transfer movies and photos to video or CD Rom. Don't forget the repair work - most done in-house - on cameras, camcorders, VCRs, and computers. You can even bring in that old camera you found in the attic - they'll fix it.

Brenda Freitas - Tewksbury Camera & Computer

Tewksbury Camera & Computer is located at 1215 Main St., Claddagh Place, in Tewksbury. They're open Monday thru Saturday, 9:30 - 6:00.

Wilmington library notes

Vacation week program

The Children's Department will host a drop-in rubber stamp program during the February school vacation week from Tuesday, Feb. 20 through Friday, Feb. 23. Tables in the children's room will be set up with decorative rubber stamps, paper and writing tools. Children may use the materials to make bookmarks, cards, or simply to dabble in design. If a break from the weather is needed, come to the library and create with rubber stamps. Because this is a drop-in program, registration is not required. Pre-schoolers will need to be accompanied by a parent or care giver. Please call 658-2967 for more information.

Bookends

The title chosen for discussion for the March meeting of Bookends, the library's book discussion group for adults, is Having Our Say: The Delaney Sisters' First 100 Years by Sarah Louise and Annie Elizabeth Delaney. Please call the library to reserve a copy.

Bookends meets regularly the first Thursday of the month in the library's Conference Room at 7 p.m. All are welcome.

The titles chosen by the group for April through July are: A Yellow Raft in Blue Water by Michael Dorris; Persuasion by Jane Austen; Smilla's Sense of Snow by Peter Hoeg; and A Civil Action by Jonathan Harr.

Library telephone number

There is some confusion about which listed number to use when calling the library. The library's telephone number is (508) 658-2967. This number should be used by all except the speech or hearing impaired for whom the special TTY number (508) 658-4625 is available. Those who call the library on the TTY number who do not need the special telecommunication lines will be asked to call back on the library's regular number, 658-2967.

Holiday reminder

The library will be closed on Monday, February 19.

Donovan announces

Jay J. Donovan of Wilmington has announced his candidacy for the Democratic State Committee four year seat in the First Essex and Middlesex State Senate District to be elected on the Presidential Primary ballot on March 5. The First Essex and Middlesex State Senate District covers 18 communities between Wilmington and Gloucester. Donovan has actively represented these communities for the past 12 years as the two year member by supporting the efforts of local Democrats and by serving on the Executive, Platform and Convention Committees.

Current and former State Committee members from the Senate District who know Jay best stressed his ability to deliver for the district. Shirley Raynard from Middleton, who has represented the District for the past 20 years, said "I always refer people in the District to Jay when they need to get something done; I know that Jay will deliver." Kenneth Murphy of Gloucester, who is stepping down as the four member, remembers how "Jay would drive through a snowstorm to fulfill a district commitment." Catherine Cecil of Ipswich added that "Jay has always provided valuable advice in working with the State Committee and has been readily available to assist local Committees." Former State Committee member Elizabeth Kilcoyne, also from Ipswich, recounts "Jay's ability to work with local Democrats across the District as reflected in the Victory '92 Bus Tour." Steve O'Leary of North Reading, a former State Committee member, stated that "Jay has the ability to pull the members of the State Committee together and to work as a team to deliver for the District."

Besides his involvement with the Democratic State Committee, Donovan has been an active member of the Wilmington Democratic Town Committee since 1980, has been a delegate to every State Convention since 1982, has attended every National Convention since 1980 and served as an elected delegate to the 1992 Democratic National Convention. Jay was also elected by his fellow State Committee members as a member of the Temporary Credentials Standing Committee for the Democratic National Convention in 1992. Donovan has also served his community for 10 years as an elected member of the Wilmington Redevelopment Authority and as an appointed member of the Metropolitan Area Planning Council.

Donovan has operated his own Planning and Development Consulting firm since 1979 and recently served as a delegate to the 1995 White House Conference on Small Business, which President Clinton praised in the recent State of the Union Address. As a small businessman, Jay understands the importance of a strong economy and the need for strategic planning in any business venture. Donovan was recently appointed to the Mass. Advisory Committee of the U.S. Small Business Administration. Jay lives in Wilmington with his wife Susan, a public school teacher, and his two young children, Kristen and Andrew.

Congratulations!

Donna Wayman was inducted into the RE/MAX "Hall of Fame" on Saturday, Feb. 3rd at the Copley Marriott in Boston.

Nelson senior of month

Nicole Nelson, daughter of Alan and Patricia Nelson of Wilmington, and Patrick Pulliam of Billerica, seniors at Shawsheen Tech have been named "Teenagers of the Month" for January, through a program sponsored by the Billerica Lodge of Elks. Both are members of the school's honor society and recipients of many citizenship awards, given to students deemed "pleasant to teach."

Nicole Nelson

Nicole specializes on cosmetology. She especially enjoys coloring and cutting hair and doing "creative styling, the more creative, the better." She received the Wellesley College Book Award last year and has taken part in "quick builds" of Jehovah's Witnesses Kingdom Hall; her speciality is roofing. She works part time as a waitress at Stelio's in Wilmington and has done pedicures for Less Stress; she is now seeking a coop job in skin care and aroma therapy.

"Nicole is a wonderful young lady," says her instructor, Phyllis Mario. "She is a hard worker who will do well. She's tops." In her leisure time Nicole enjoys writing poetry, painting, sewing, dancing, downhill skiing and hiking. Following graduation, she hopes to work part time in the cosmetology field while devoting at least 90 hours a month as a Jehovah's Witness Pioneer, then becoming a missionary in about two years.

'Satan' rules at Heavenly Wings

by Bill Conlon
Not long ago, Sal Monateri was changing tires at O'Brien & Feeley in Wilmington. He left the business shortly before the tire outlet folded and now he couldn't be happier.

Today, Sal runs one of the hottest businesses in Tewksbury: Heavenly Wings, on Livingston Street across from Tew-Mac airport.

Sal hardly advertised at all in May, when Heavenly Wings first opened its doors. Word of mouth quickly spread the word about Sal's hot product, and today his business couldn't be better. He said he sold a ton of wings and tenders -- 2,000 pounds -- on Super Bowl Sunday alone, and the next morning people were lined up outside looking for more. New Year's Eve was another banner night, he said. Not bad for a business that hasn't yet celebrated its first anniversary! Sal started his operation with one refrigerator and now has three in use.

Sal said he takes large lunchtime orders for Raytheon, Wang labs, NYNEX and Tewksbury Hospital, and business gets busy again for the supper hour. Heavenly Wings has no "sit down" seating available, so take out and delivery make up the entire operation.

Sal's main product, as the name implies, is chicken. Sal purchases Purdue's huge roaster wings, which are bigger than the chicken wings sold in most restaurants, and offers them with a choice of 18 different sauces.

There is Country Style and New York Style, Texas BBQ and Honey

Dijon, but the hot stuff is what sells the best. Sal said he gets calls from people in Buffalo, N.Y., where the chicken dish got its name, asking for his sauce recipe because Sal's hot wings are better than Buffalo's own.

The hot wings come in four levels of intensity: mild, medium, hot and "Satan." Yankees may be reluctant to try spicy-hot foods, but Sal says the Satan wings are his top seller, along with Hawaiian Teriyaki.

"We sell a ton of Satan. You'd be surprised," he said. A dip of bleu cheese dressing helps ease the heat.

Sal's wings are fried in his own batter and never frozen. He said he has learned to control the cooking time to produce more tender, juicy wings.

The chicken tenders, in the same sauces as the wings, are sold either alone or, more popularly, in salads. Sal said it isn't unusual to sell 25 to 30 salads in the Friday lunch rush.

Heavenly Wings also offers steak tips marinated in one of Sal's sauces and "jalapeño poppers." The lunch menu also includes roast beef and a new line of fish entrees, but chicken wings are still the hottest product.

Sal said he hopes to expand sales into Wilmington, and is looking at a second Heavenly Wings outlet in Burlington, or New Hampshire. He said he hopes to add two new sauces a year, and with several ideas for new flavors in mind. All the sauces are his own invention.

Heavenly Wings is open from 11 a.m. until 10 p.m. Sunday through Monday, and until midnight Friday and Saturday. Call 858-0890 to place an order, and try to call ahead on Fridays. Heavenly Wings offers both take out and delivery service.

Heavenly Wings offers a variety of lunch specials for $5.25 such as a 5-piece wing platter, a large roast beef sandwich, salad with chicken tenders or a 6-piece chicken tender spread, all with fries and a drink.

Heavenly Wings offers sampler wing/platters with wings in four different flavors. A 16-piece wing sampler is $8.95 while a 24-piece is $12.50. Ask for your choice of any four sauces, such as Sicilian, Honey BBQ, Garlic and Sweet & Sour, but don't overlook the "Satan" wings.

After all, you could say the devil made you do it.

Older workers learn newer skills

Two Tewksbury residents who entered the work force before computers reigned supreme are now computer proficient, thanks to a program offered through UMass Lowell's Division of Continuing education.

Malcolm Greene and Jean Simpson, both of Tewksbury, joined 12 other graduates of the seven month program, funded by the U.S. Department of Labor and jointly sponsored by UMass Lowell's Division of Continuing Education, the Greater Lowell Regional Employment Board, and the state Department of Employment and Training. The program was designed for Lowell area residents who are age 55 or older and out of work.

"You are prepared to go out there, and congratulations," said Grady Milton, Mass. Dept. of Employment and Training, as certificates were handed out at a recent awards ceremony. Dr. Leonard Harlow, Job Training Partnership Act coordinator, presented the awards following remarks from Dr. Dirk Messelaar, director of the Division of Continuing Education.

Messelaar said it is the charge of the Dept. of Continuing Education to prepare adult students for the workplace. "If the University can help people get jobs, it's doing its job," he said. He noted that a number of the participants in the computer proficiency program have already found work.

Building on a 100 year tradition of excellence in higher education, the University of Mass. Lowell offers its 11,000 graduate and undergraduate students a comprehensive range of programs in the colleges of Arts and Sciences, Education, Engineering, Fine Arts, Health Professions and Management. In seeking to make quality education accessible to all, the University has increased its commitment to meeting students' demonstrated financial needs.

THE FINAL PAPERWORK

The stacks of papers that you have to sign in order to buy a house can leave you confused. The person conducting the closing will ask you to sign your name to countless documents that are filled with terse legalese. Some buyers just barely glance at each form and sign them without a lot of questions, while others find it very frustrating to try to read every form at the closing table. You should read and understand the papers you sign. If you are getting a loan to buy the property, most of the paperwork will come from the mortgage company. In most cases, there is little time to read everything in advance because the forms arrive at the closing office shortly before closing is scheduled to begin. Most of the documents use standardized language, however, and you should be able to get copies of the documents ahead of time from the lender so that you can have your questions answered and be comfortable with the settlement process.

Cookies from home for Bosnia

by Karen Miethe
Good things are cooking at the North Intermediate school.

The kids in Mrs. Cahill's special education class 502.4 are baking cookies and writing letters, sending their support to our troops in Bosnia.

"It's been a real learning experience for the kids," said teaching assistant Mrs. Cairra.

"They've been learning fractions, and how to double recipes," she said.

The kids got the idea from an address in a newspaper, and started baking the cookies last week.

"So far, we have made orange spice, peanut butter, molasses, oatmeal, heart shaped sugar cookies, and everybody's favorite, chocolate chip. We want a good variety to send over," Cairra said.

Every student has gotten a chance to help out in one way or another, either measuring the cookies onto the cookie sheet, or placing them on racks to cool. Cairra puts the cookies in and takes them out of the oven, but the rest is the done by the kids.

They hope to be able to send over the box of cookies and letters before Valentine's Day on the 14th, especially because of the heart shaped cookies.

"Here's hoping those get there all in one piece," Cairra laughed.

Andrea Cochran and Ryan Jensen are immersed in their work of scooping out cookie dough for cookies for the troops in Bosnia (photo by Karen Miethe).

Chamber's business Expo '96

The Wilmington Chamber of Commerce is anticipating the 96 Business Expo to be very successful for business and consumers. The Business Expo will be held Thursday, April 11 from 2 to 8 p.m. at the Shriners' Auditorium located at 99 Fordham Rd., Wilmington. The Expo Committee members are encouraging businesses, retail stores, and food services to be involved. Tables are going fast and table prices are very reasonable. The Business Expo is a great way for business to market products, create sales, and establish positive customer relations. "This year's theme for the Expo's Consumer's Marketplace is 'Getting to know you.' The Business Expo is one of the benefits Chamber members have to establish direct customer contacts. "We are also encouraging non Chamber members to join in," said Executive Director Sandy Murphy of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce.

Eight businesses have co-sponsored this year's Expo. The co-sponsors are Zeneca Resins, AGFA Division, Bayer Inc., Winchester Hospital Family Medical Center, Genetics Institute, Reading Municipal Light Department, Continental Cablevision, Ametek Aerospace Products, Inc. and AT&T. For further information on the Business Expo, contact Sandy Murphy at the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce office. The telephone number is 508-657-7211.

Depression Workshop dinner March 9

Saturday, March 9, The Depression Workshop will sponsor a special dinner, craft sale and flea market event at the Union Congregational Church, Haverhill St., No. Reading.

The Tewksbury headquartered, non-profit, mutual help group is raising funds to continue to expand its services in the Merrimack Valley. The support organization has grown to five locations since beginning in its founder's home in 1983. The Depression Workshop does not charge a fee for its services and receives no corporate or government grants or financial assistance, so it relies heavily on volunteers, donations, and fund raisers.

This special event will begin 9 a.m. and end at 7 p.m. A craft sale and flea market will begin the day and run from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. admission free.

From 5 to 7 p.m. there will be an "all you can eat" ziti dinner. The cost will be: Under five, free, ages five to 11, $3; age 12 and up, $5.

The Workshop also needs volunteers to help with the setup, cooking and serving, and cleanup. Any donated food items, utensils, etc. will help to keep costs down.

Tables and spaces for the craft sale and flea market may be rented for $20 each. To volunteer, rent space and tables, or donate items call Jackie at 508-664-4379 or Polly at 508-685-3037.

Vietnam memorial wall in Bay State

An exhibit entitled, Vietnam Veterans Memorial Wall - a National Experience, will open to the public Friday, Feb. 9 with an initial open house reception from 4 to 7 p.m., at the fourth floor North Shore Veterans Counseling Services Center, 3 Broadway, Beverly across from Beverly City Hall.

"I invite everyone to come and view these rare and remarkable photographs," said Executive Director Michael F.S. King, "these should be seen by all Americans."

The opening reception will be attended by Congressman Peter G. Torkildsen, Secretary of the Commonwealth William F. Galvin, and a state legislative delegation of 18 state senators and state representatives including Rep. James R. Miceli (D-Wilmington).

Beverly Mayor William Scanlon, Jr. will head up the contingent of local officials and welcome everyone to the city.

King said, "We have been blessed by this enormous outpouring of support by so many officials and the public," he continued, "we are tremendously grateful."

During the reception there will be an awards presentation ceremony to recognize individuals and organizations who have been supportive to veteran and HIV/AIDS related issues.

The exhibit consists of 72 black and white, silver framed photographs paying tribute to the unveiling of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Wall, and the entombment of the Vietnam War Unknown Soldier.

Nursing assistant training program

For nearly a century, the American Red Cross has been the leader in providing quality nursing and health care education. In the same tradition of excellence, we have developed a Nursing Assistant training Program that provides comprehensive training designed to improve the quality of resident care throughout the nursing home industry.

The Merrimack Valley Red Cross is offering a day, evening or Saturday Nurse Assistant Training Program at 391 Pawtucket St., Lowell, MA. The course will teach the skills that will enable nurse assistants to provide quality care. For more information on the March courses call 508-683-2465 and ask for Linda or Ileen.

Jim Kane found his '94 Acura inverted after an accident on Woburn Street in Wilmington on Saturday involving a car driven by Sandra Teixeira who was driving an '89 Pontiac. Apparently after the collision Kane's car hit the snow bank and flipped onto its roof. He crawled out and was transported to Winchester Hospital. He was released after treatment for injuries.

Coloring contest

The Wilmington Tobacco Control Program, in cooperation with the Wilmington Public Schools, is sponsoring a coloring contest in February to celebrate "heart" month. The contest will run through the month of February, with all entries due on or before March 1.

The contest is open to all Wilmington youth in grades kindergarten through two. There will be a total of 12 contest winners, four in each grade level.

We would like to thank the Wilmington Fire and Police Departments for their quick response and professional service given to our son on Saturday, February 3, 1996.

Eating together program

We are seeing a drop in meals being served in the Eating Together Program held at the high school every week, Monday through Friday. It has been a very bad winter so far, and that might account for some seniors who are afraid to venture out onto the roads, that may be a little slick after the storms. We also realize that many of our regular seniors who attend are now basking in the warmth of Florida's sun.

To replace those who have regularly attended the program, we hope to see new seniors seeking socialization and companionship finding it by joining others at lunch, at least one or two days a week. Nutritionist Ann Quinn is doing a fabulous job preparing a very nutritious meal throughout the week. Price wise you could not beat it at $1.00 a meal, with no tax or tip. Ann has arranged a variety of meals for your choice. Every day she prepares an excellent full course meal. If you prefer a smaller meal, she has a very tasteful soup, a variety of fruit cups, a selection of sandwiches and salads. Why not try it, we are sure you will enjoy the meal, the companionship and socialization. If you live alone, don't eat alone.

Researchers have found that those who participate in social and community groups, such as a Senior Center have three times the survival rate as those who do not take part in any organized activities. We learn from this study the feeling of comfort and support from involvement in organized activities is more important in the survival rate than a prescribed medication, that has only a temporary effect on a case of loneliness or depression. Call the Senior Center to reserve a meal for either a day or a week.

Other activities

Monday, Feb. 12, an aerobic exercise class from 10 to 11 a.m.; whist in the function room starting at 1 p.m.; an excellent art class is taught by George Webster, free of charge from 1 to 3 p.m. Tax preparer Joseph Hughes will be preparing the income taxes of seniors with appointments.

Nutrition class

Tuesday, Feb. 13, the very popular Nutrition Class will be held in the craft room from 10 a.m. to noon under the instruction of retired nurse Jean Webster. Jean researches throughout the week to bring the class the latest in nutritional recipes, to help the class live a healthier and happier life. All one has to do is go in and join the class. Another form of socialization and companionship. Jean will always make room for seniors who want to join the class.

The shop class will be held from 9 a.m. to noon under the instruction of Joe Filipowicz, a talented wood craftsman, only too happy to help any senior, man or woman to enjoy a hobby.

Wed., Feb. 14, aerobic exercises are held from 10 to 11 a.m. Craft class from 9 a.m. to noon, audiologist will be giving hearing tests and checking hearing aids for proficiency starting at 1 p.m. At noon you can enjoy an afternoon singing your favorite songs, accompanied by Dot Phillips at the piano. Before going to the function room to enjoy the singing, a short socialization eating your bag lunch in the kitchen will take place. Barbara Hooper our Shine volunteer will be at the center to help seniors with insurance problems. This month she will have with her Open Enrollment forms for those who wish to enroll in a supplemental insurance policy to cover the 20 percent of medical care not covered by Medicare, such as, a Medex Policy, HMO, etc. This is also an Open Enrollment time for those who when they qualified for Medicare at the age of 65 refused to take Part B of Medicare that pays 80 percent of all doctor services. You may sign up now with no penalty.

Thursday, Feb. 15 the sewing, knitting and crocheting class is held in the craft room from 9 a.m. to noon; the ceramic class is held in the center from 9 a.m. to noon; the nurse will be giving diabetes tests and checking blood pressures, starting at 1:30 p.m. and the dance class is held from 1 to 3 p.m.

Friday, Feb. 16, the third aerobic class of the week is held in the function room from 10 to 11 a.m. and bingo is played from 1 to 2:20.

Schools will be closed for vacation the week of Feb. 19. Any shutin senior who would like a meal taken to the Center and delivered, or a meal taken to the center to eat there should call this week. We have the number of daily meals delivered to Minuteman Home Care by Friday, Feb. 16.

Margaret Keady, respite care servicer has been out on sick leave and unable to transport seniors who cannot use the minibus due to walking disabilities to medical appointments or those with other disabilities who have been taken to medical appointments by Margaret. The minibus drives are trying to fit into their runs everyday as many calls as they can from the calls we receive. If you have been transported by Margaret before or a new senior with a disability who lives alone with no one to take them to a medical appointment, call the Senior center at 657-7595, we will do all we can to accommodate your need until Margaret returns.

Dango's third period heroics put

Cats in first place

by James Pote

Absolutely phenomenal.

Those two words describe various things for the Wilmington High School varsity ice hockey team. First, junior goaltender Jason Dango; second, the entire team, and third their 2-1 victory over Masconomet this past Saturday which put them alone in first place in the Cape Ann League Large Division with its 8-2 league record and 11-2 overall record.

The win also earned them seventh place in Tuesday's Boston Globe Coaches Poll of Division II teams. They trailed familiar faces from Tewksbury who is number one and Newburyport, who they lost 3-1 and is rated the third best.

Dango was the biggest reason why Wilmington was able to extend its winning streak to seven games. Last March, he faced this same powerful offensive squad from Masco and came away with 35 beautiful saves, but the Cats lost 1-0 in overtime to knock them out of the state tournament. And this past Saturday was revenge for not only him, but his teammates as well.

"[Masco] is a great team. They are really fast," Dango said, after making 25 saves on Saturday. "We really needed this win - it will give everyone a real big boost."

Dango sure has Masco's number and every other team for that matter. But, Masco is an explosive team. They have the three top goal scorers in the Cape Ann League in Andy and Greg LeColst as well as Brian Sennott. And Dango and the rest of his teammates shut down all three of those big guns as they combined for eight shots, with six of those coming in the final period - which was Dango's strongest.

"Our defense played really good tonight. They moved out the guys out in front," Dango said.

Both Andy LeColst and Sennott have been three-year starters. Including this year, the two have combined for 70 goals and 127 assists, good for 197 points. Greg LeColst, on the other hand, is a sophomore and in his one-and-a-half-year career, he has netted 43 goals while assisting on 34 other goals for 77 points. The threesome have combined for 274 points - with Andy LeColst scoring the lone goal on Dango in those two games, last March.

"Once again Jason was unbelievable. When you have a goalie like him you can steal a couple of victories away and that's what happened," head coach Steve Scanlon said. "I thought in the first period we were a little tentative. But we played one of our best periods in the second. And in the third, we were running around a lot and we never settled down." And how about their speed, coach? "They are as quick as cats."

As of the Masco game, Dango has all eleven victories as the net-minder. He has played all but 22 minutes of the team's 13 games. He has raised his save percentage number up to 94 percent, saving 184 shots out of a possible 196. He faces about 15 shots per game, while his goals against average is a smidge under 1.05.

Right from the get-go, Dango was tested. He made nine saves in the first period, including two big ones in the closing seconds of a Masco power play, one with his stick and the second on a slapper from the point that landed in his gut.

The first period was scoreless, with Masco carrying the play. Wilmington, like Scanlon said, played a little tentatively, as they only had two shots on net with both of them coming outside of Masco's blue line.

After both teams exchanged several scoring chances early on in the second period, Wilmington started to take the momentum away from about the ten minute mark left until the sound of the buzzer.

Justin Vallas started the offensive spark with a slapshot from the right circle, where goaltender Brian Canonica threw out his left pad and covered up the puck after not knowing where it was. Ryan Haubner quickly followed with a 1-on-1, taking a slapshot from the high slot area for another left pad save to keep up the team's chances.

Wilmington continued to apply the pressure. About a minute after Haubner's chance, Kevin Carroll, who is part of the third line that really looked strong in the first two periods, took the puck before the Masco blue line on the left boards on a power play after a pitiful Masco penalty. Taking the puck into the zone with just one defender left to get by, Carroll made a superb move sliding the puck under a diving defenseman and jumping over him to send Carroll in alone. Carroll moved in and shot into Canonica's pads for a golden scoring opportunity.

On the face-off moments after Carroll's chance, John Considine had the puck on the right boards. He made a beautiful across ice pass to left point man Brian Farkas. Farkas turned to face the net, took two steps in and fired a slapshot that was kicked out by the left pad and sent directly onto Dennis Torpey's stick. Torpey rifled the biscuit into the basket for the first Wilmington goal with 4:03 left in the period.

Just 63 seconds later after Torpey's ninth goal of the season, Carroll once again added a spark to the team. With the Wilmington style of dumping the puck into the zone, Carroll hustled into the left corner, trapping the Masco defenseman and allowing Danny Abbott who followed Carroll, to walk out of the corner with the puck. Abbott quickly found the third man in, Ryan Haubner, in the left slot area, whose wrist made it 2-0 with exactly three minutes left in the second period.

Going into the final period, Wilmington not only had a two-goal advantage, but they were carrying the momentum. But, perhaps, not only did it show that the team was tired, most especially the defensemen, the third period showed that the Cats were very timid to make a mistake, and perhaps sitting on the lead. And once that started, Masco never stopped pouring on the pressure from the start of the third period until the final seconds.

Masco had a man-advantage when Farkas was called for a cross-check with 27 seconds left in the second period, and with about three seconds left on the power play in the third period, Dango came up with one of his 13 third period saves, on a stuff from around the net.

Moments later, a Masco player took a slapshot from the far red line where Dango came out to challenge the shooter. The shot took off and nailed the post and was sent directly back in the direction where the shot was taken from. Masco celebrated what they thought was a goal, but both the referees and Dango knew it wasn't.

"I thought it was going wide. But, when I heard it hit the post and I was scared," Dango said.

Just 2:18 into the third period, Masco scored their lone goal of the game on a slap shot from the left point, with what seemed to be about an army full of people screening Dango out in front. Dango admitted that he never saw the puck and that was obvious when he didn't look past him until several seconds after the goal went in.

Dango immediately showed that the goal didn't bother him as he stopped a 2-on-1 break with a left pad save on a wrist shot from the right circle. But, perhaps Dango's biggest save of the night came right thereafter, when none of the Wilmington players covered a wide-open left pointman, who walked in about ten feet. Dango came out to his left circle challenging the shooter, which was heading for a five-hole opening, but Dango came up huge with another pad save closing up the hole.

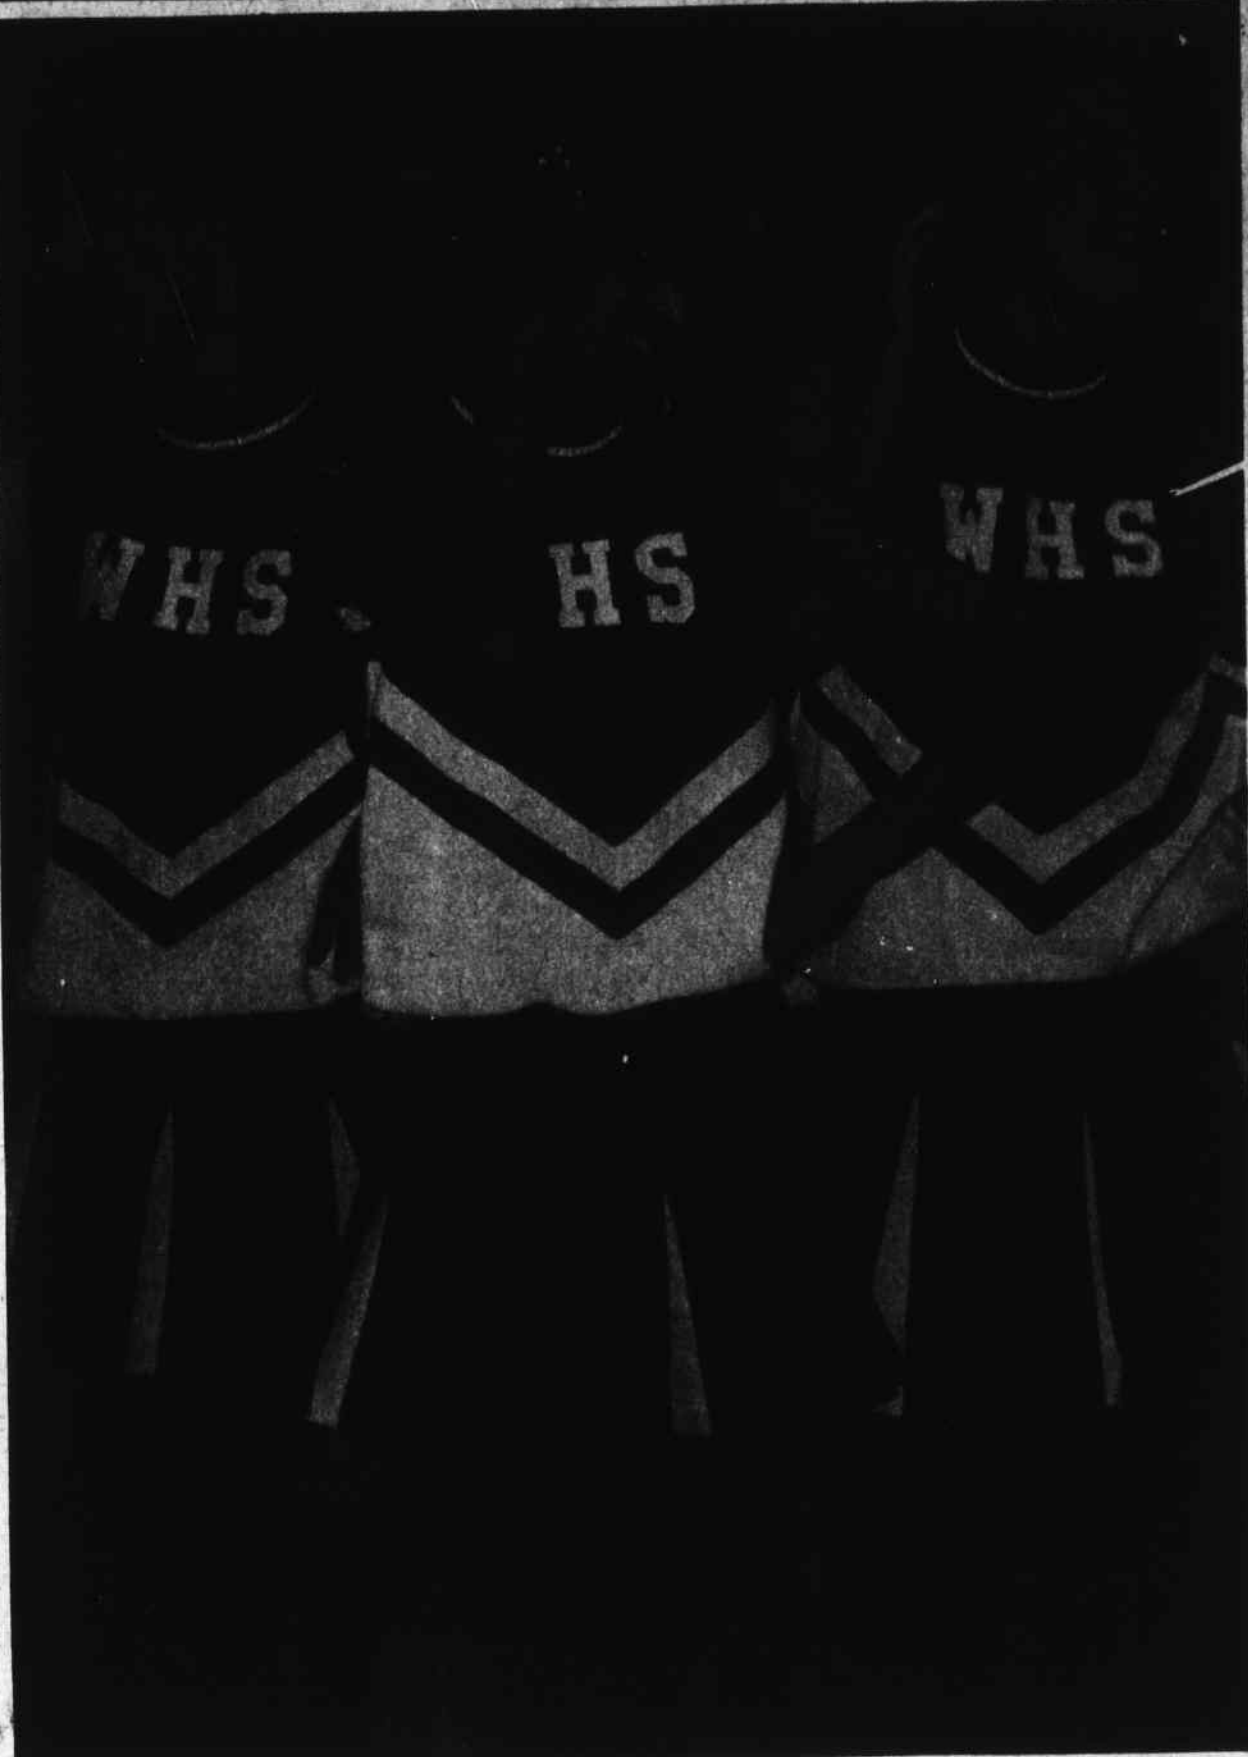

"I knew he was going to shoot it - he didn't have any other options. I had to come out and challenge him. I was just hoping that the angle was covered," Dango admitted.

With about six minutes left to go in the game and Dango already standing on his head, Ricky LeColst, a speedster, took the puck into the Wilmington zone, circling around the net and passing the puck into the slot area. His teammate fired a one-timer off Dango, with the rebound going to Dango's right side. Dango, going for the puck, took the rebound shot off the stick and then his shoulder for two more impressive saves.

Scanlon, with 5:08 left, took his timeout to try to get his troops to relax and play their style of play. But, Masco continued to apply the pressure.

After two quick breaks and saves, Dango kicked out a blue line blast after Farkas made two big defensive plays stopping 3-on-1 and 2-on-2 breaks for Masco. And speaking of Farkas, he and the other three defensemen, especially Dave Bennett, played outstanding all game long. "I thought all four of them played very well. But, you could tell they were very tired in the third period," Scanlon said.

With 1:28 left, Masco pulled their goalie to send out the extra-skater. Wilmington's Charlie Ross almost got the empty netter, displaying great hustle and with 29 seconds left, Masco took their timeout with a face-off to Dango's left. Danny Abbott ended all chances, sending the puck out of Wilmington's zone on two different occasions and Wilmington begun the celebration.

With Wilmington getting this victory to put them in first place, the same two teams will match up again this Saturday at Ristuccia Exposition Center starting at 2:20.

This writer highly suggests to those who are remotely interested in the game of hockey and to those who enjoy high school sports, to go see two great teams battle it out. If this game is half of what the two previous games have been, the price of admission is definitely well worth it.

John Engdahl of Wilmington, will be running in the 100th annual Boston Marathon this April. For the fourth consecutive year, John is looking for supporters as he will be trying to raise money to help the cure for Leukemia.

John Engdahl is Running for Leukemia

by James Pote
For the fourth consecutive year, John Engdahl, 55, will be trying to raise as much money as he can to help those who were not as fortunate as he was. For the past three years, John has combined to raise over $15,000 while running the Boston Marathon, to help people who have been diagnosed with Leukemia, a disease John beat just a few years back.

This April, John will be among the 37,000 registered runners in the 100th annual Boston Marathon. Once again he is looking for support from people to help the Leukemia Society find a cure they are striving to reach by the year 2000.

Back in 1991, Engdahl was preparing to run in his first ever Boston Marathon. When going for his physical and after a few tests, he was told that he had Leukemia. After a year of treatment and a bone marrow transplant, Engdahl was among those lucky few who beat the disease. And in 1993, he started as one of five people in Team in Training, for which he has raised at least $5,000 each of the past three years.

"I'm one of those very lucky people who beat the disease," said Engdahl a Wilmington resident. "I try to tell the people who get [Leukemia] that they can beat it. But, everyone is different and it makes so much difference with the person. But, I tried to always keep a positive attitude."

Engdahl said he has gained so many new friends since he was diagnosed, and within this past year he said he lost two of them. He said a lot of emotions run through his mind whenever he loses one of his friends, and he often wonders why them and not him. And he says he just wants to raise money to help find a cure before he loses anymore friends.

"I still wanted to run because I had already planned to do it. I wanted to help raise the money to help the people who weren't as lucky as I am. So I guess that's why I'm staying with it," Engdahl said.

Engdahl said he trains year round for this one-time event. He said he would run anywhere between six to ten miles every other day with several races in between in the off-marathon season. And times like this, when the marathon is fast approaching, he runs every day except Monday and Friday, with many races in between.

"With this cold weather, it doesn't make it easier for me to run," Engdahl chuckled.

Engdahl has finished all three years in the Boston Marathon. In 1993, he admitted the race was very hard for him, but he finished at a time of 5:40. In 1994, he vastly improved his time as he continued to get stronger at 4:42. And last year, he again knocked his time down a little bit more, finishing at 4:20. But, he said with so many people running this year, he really hasn't set any goals for himself.

"They just tell us to just to participate. Every year there is about 9,000 people who run and already this year 37,000 people have registered. It's really something to be a part of one of the biggest events in history - but, I'm lucky to be a part of it," Engdahl said.

Back in 1954, John's sister was diagnosed with Leukemia. And this year, John will be running in her memory as well as another one of his friends, Ike Neitring, who he lost this past November. He hopes he can raise even more than he has the past few years.

"Everyone has been tremendous with their support," Engdahl said.

John still remains active in other sporting events as well. In fact, he plays in the adult softball league at Aprile Field in Wilmington. He actually played one game in his normal left field position, when he was sick in 1991, while playing a few in 1992 and then back to full seasons in '93 and '94.

"People think that the disease just happens to children. But, it happens to ten times adults than it does to children and with their help we can try to help all of [those who are diagnosed]. Doctors have learned a lot since my sister was diagnosed. Now 73% of all children [who are diagnosed] survive. Hopefully, with people's support, we can find a cure for Leukemia," Engdahl said.

If anyone would like to send in contributions of their own to the Leukemia Society, they can send a check payable to the Leukemia Society of America, 180 Rustcraft Road, Dedham, Ma., 02026. See form below.

Gymnastics team has one last shot for a victory

by James Pote
With their last chance of getting their only victory of the season, the Wilmington High School gymnastics team didn't receive any luck on Monday night to even come close of getting that first win, when they went up against a very tough and talented Methuen squad.

Methuen was really able to break the score wide-open after they were leading 63.0-25.5 after the first two events. Methuen cruised in the last two events, ending the night with a 129.4-102.1 victory.

Wilmington, though had some very good overall performances in many different events. Nicole Schell was impressive on the beam with a 7.0 score which was tops for the team in that events, while, Lisa Haugh, Kerri French and Schell also had impressive front-over hand moves in the vaults which earned them all 6.7 tallies.

Lauren Holloway led the team with a 7.8 in the floor exercises, while, Schell and French followed with 7.2 and 7.0 scores, respectively.

Wilmington will get their last chance of victory on Wednesday night in their last meet of the year against Masconomet, who head coach Michelle Gillis said is averaging about the same 95-100 points that her team does.

Free Throw winners

Wilmington based Fr. Croke Council, Knights of Columbus, was well represented at the District Free Throw Championships, recently held in Chelmsford as all nine of our shooters represented Wilmington quite well. Four shooters won in their respective age categories:

Girls, 11, Kristen Porfido, 12,

Caitlyn Bransfield; boys, 12, Eric Sweizynski, 13, Martin DeAngelo.

These fine shooters will now compete in the Regional shootouts to be held Saturday March 9 at Lynn Vocational High School. Winners at this level will move onto the State Championships.

REDUCE FLOOR FALL DANGER

QUESTION: I understand that a great number of older people injure themselves by slipping and falling on the floor. How can this danger be reduced?

ANSWER: One of the prime offenders is the "flying carpet" known as the scatter rug. All scatter rugs should be fastened down. Tacks will work and there are a number of paints, sprays, powders and padding on the market to provide non-skid backing.

Your best bet is a reinforced foam rubber pad placed beneath the carpet. also, a well buffed waxed floor is surprisingly safe. It is the slightly wet, underpolished floor that is slippery and unsafe.

"FLYING CARPETS" (scatter rugs) are one of the major causes of floor fall accidents.

WHS Girls Hoop team needs two more victories for tourney

by James Pote

After playing a superb first half, the Wilmington High School varsity girls basketball team lost to the powerful Masconomet squad for the second time in a seven-day span, when Masco outscored the Cats 32-14 in the second half on Friday night.

In the first half, Wilmington had an early 8-4 lead. Four minutes later the lead diminished to 13-11 in favor of the Cats after Lisa Southmayd showed off her catcher's arm with a softball like throw to centerfield, down the length of the court, to the wide-open Renee Vachon who hit the jumper.

After that bucket, it was all Masco - the rest of the way. Wilmington hung in their for the final six minutes of the first half, trailing by nine at the half, but Masco blew it open with a 14-3 run in those final minutes.

In the opening minute of the second half, Wilmington bounced back with two straight buckets and it seemed as if they were coming to close to an upset on a team who blew them out by 31 points a week earlier.

After guard Jenna Tait hit a jumper from outside, Masco went on a tear, first a 9-0 run making it 29-20 with 12:00 left. Wilmington though fell apart, especially when they continued to have problems with turning the ball over - but, hey they hung tough against one of the better teams around. The rest was Masco as they finished the last 12 minutes of play out scoring the Cats, 28-10.

On Tuesday night, the team traveled to North Andover where they lost a tight one down the stretch, 42-38. Head coach Beth Kapnis said her team missed several big opportunities, but overall played extremely well.

"What we need to do is to play 32 full minutes of basketball. We played some great minutes and then lose it for a while. We have been more disciplined and good things are starting to happen with the offense. We're getting there," Kapnis said.

Senior captain forward Leanne Harris led the team with 18 points and she was the lone player in double figures in scoring. But, Kapnis said Karen MacArthur, a sophomore center and Renee Vachon a guard, also played very well in the loss.

Right now the team is 8-8 with four games left in the season and all four of them will be played at home within the next ten days. The Cats will go up against Lynnfield, N. Andover, Dracut and Hamilton-Wenham. Those first two games will be a challenge for the team who needs just two more wins to go to the state tournament for the third straight year and the fourth time in the past five years.

Wilmington, Tewksbury hockey teams enter same tourney

Both the Wilmington and Tewksbury High School hockey teams will be among the 12 teams in the Newburyport Bank Hockey Classic at the Graff Arena in Newburyport during February school vacation week. This tournament will include some of the finest high school hockey teams in Eastern Massachusetts as they will be preparing for the state tournament.

Wilmington will be in the Gula-zian Division which is made up of Amesbury, Methuen and Lynn English. They will play Methuen on Feb. 19 at 8:00, and determining whether they win or lose that game will depend either if they play at 5:00 or 7:00 that Friday in either the consolation/championship game.

Tewksbury, though, will be in the Bresnahan Division, which will be made up of teams from Triton, Canton and Haverhill. Their first game will also be on Feb. 19 at 4:00 against Canton. Whether they win or lose, they will play the following day at either 6:00 or 8:00.

Youth soccer registration

The Wilmington Youth Soccer Association is still accepting late registration for the Spring '96 Intown Soccer Season.

Registration is open to all boys and girls in kindergarten through grade five. The season will last approximately 10 weeks. Cost is $30 per player with a maximum of $75 per family plus a $5 late fee per player.

The $5 late fee must be included per player registering or your registration and fee will be returned to you. All first time registrants must supply a copy of their birth certificate. Arciero's five three-pointers help Cats knock off undefeated Knights

by James Pote
Perhaps not making the tying shot in the triple overtime loss to Masconomet has helped Jeff Arciero. On Tuesday night, the sophomore guard continued to improve and really step up, especially in the clutch, when he hit five three-pointers as the Cats gave North Andover their first league loss in 14 games, with a 66-55 victory in their last home game of the season.

Arciero started off red hot hitting his first three-pointer for the first basket of the game and he continued his hot streak throughout both halves, especially when the team really needed it.

However, with Arciero's 16 points, senior Doug Olender added 24 which includes going 14-15 from the line and another sophomore Mike Gargan, also continues to shine, as he pumped in 12 of his own, as the threesome combined for 79 percent of the team's scoring. And Arciero and Olender also combined for 12 assists, too.

The Cats are now 11-6 overall and are headed to the state tournament with their win over Rockport last week - but knocking off a perennial team like North Andover, without one of the better players on the team in Scott Swieczynski, who will be out about another ten days with an ankle injury, is a big, big victory.

"We really needed this win. The kids stuck in their entire game. We played good defense and once again we hit our free throws and that is what wins us games," head coach Jim McCune said.

Wilmington, though got a little sloppy towards the latter part of the game. Ahead by 12 points with 5:22 left in the game, Wilmington started to turn the ball over, something they really didn't do until that point. North Andover closed the gap to four points with 1:36 left, but Olender finished off any of those thoughts of a Scarlet Knights come from behind victory, as he scored the final Wilmington seven points.

It wasn't just three-players who made this win happen. Brian Carroll sank in two big jump shots as well as grabbing eight rebounds. Rob Eldridge contributed with six boards, while an injured Rich Gillis helped out with four rebounds, too. Overall the team shot 55 percent from the floor and 75 percent from the line, which are pretty good numbers, to say the least.

The team now has three road games left in the season, before the state tournament. They will travel to Lynnfield this Friday and then to North Andover the following Tuesday, before wrapping up the season on Feb. 16 at Hamilton-Wenham.

It's below zero

How's the weather? "Fine!"

by Bill Conlon

My late wife, God rest her, gave up asking me what it was like outside when I came in from the cold.

She'd ask "How is it out there?" Normal enough. But my definition of "nice" and her sense of "Arctic cold" were usually at odds. If the air felt like it was above zero, to me that was "nice." If my sinuses froze when I inhaled, I'd call that "kinda cool out there."

She quickly learned not to ask. Part of the reason why I enjoy the cold is because I dress for it, from November until March. My work as a reporter may see me indoors at a meeting one minute, and out in a snowstorm photographing a house fire the next.

My regime starts in September, at the Autumnal Equinox. That's the day that I start growing my winter beard.

A beard keeps the bitter wind off my chin, and that's what I like best about my annual face sweater. God lets me grow one (sorry ladies) so I do. The beard always disappears on the Vernal Equinox in March.

Next, I wear long-john bottoms, all winter. I put on my first set in November and they stay on for the duration. (Yes, I do change them. Geez!)

The long-johns leave me a little too warm indoors, and a touch too cool outdoors for a lengthy stay in either. Still, the compromise works for me. I can endure a three-hour meeting with minimal sweat, then into the chill for two hours without starting to shiver. It works for me.

The stoutest boots possible, with both cotton and wool sox, make up the ground floor -- to heck with fashion. L.L. Bean's Hunting Shoe (or a clone) is perfect, with leather tops and rubber bottoms. Footwear for me has to be waterproof and as warm as possible, within limits.

My Sorels, however, are only for nasty cold-weather use only. Boots with removable felt liners are great in the snow, but too clunky for day to day wear.

For the torso I go with a T-shirt, dress shirt and sweater, with a coat on top that can be removed indoors. A leather coat keeps out the breeze, which is a constant enemy. I'm able to tolerate the cold in a sweater if the air is still, but add a breeze and all bets are off. The wind pushes the cold air into the insulated air-space along my ribs, and that's where the trouble starts. But give me a coat and I'm ready for the deep freeze.

A hat is mandatory, fashion again be damned. There's a ton of blood circulation in the head and scalp, so chilling that blood down by going bare-headed is counterproductive. My wool-felt cowboy hat is fine for most uses, but I wear my "electric rabbit" Russian-style hat when it's truly brisk. Warmest hat I've ever had the pleasure to wear!

Finally, I keep a set of gloves in the truck. Most of the time I don't need them, and for lengthy stays in the cold I like mittens, but I'll wear gloves to shovel, pump gas, etc.

How is it outside? It's fine! The thermometer says it's below zero? Really? I didn't notice!

The big Pepsi-Rotary Derby runs

this weekend in New Hampshire, on both Saturday and Sunday, so many ice anglers will be missing from the local ponds. If anyone from either Tewksbury or Wilmington happens to score in New Hampshire over the weekend, so let me know, please?

Also this weekend, February 9 to 11, is the 8th annual Boston Sportsmen's Show at the Bayside Expo Center, south of Boston along the Southeast Distressway. (Follow the signs.) Deacon?

If you're not in New Hampshire or Boston this weekend, give some serious thought to taking the kids ice skating! The ice conditions right now are perfect, but I'll take that back if the weather changes.

Local ponds have a nice sheet of ice in place, close to a foot thick (watch out for weak spots) and the snow cover you see is thin and not frozen. Bring a shovel and you'll clear a gorgeous skating rink in no time! Bring the tipups and drown a minnow while the kids are working on their careers as hockey stars and figure skaters. The ice is great!

Next Sunday, February 18, there are two local fishing derbies on tap. The Greater Lowell Fly Fishers will hold a contest on Long Sought For Pond in Westford, off Route 40, while Lake Side Bait will hold a fishing derby on Lake Mascuppig in Tyngsboro. The Lake Side contest will begin at 7 and not 7:30 a.m. as noted on their handout. (I checked). Both events cost $10 to enter.

Make-A-Wish dart tourney raises $722

by Bill Conlon

The Make-A-Wish foundation is a little richer this week, after several dozen dart players made a point of playing in a benefit tournament on Saturday.

Some 42 dart shooters showed up at the Wilmington Knights of Columbus hall on Saturday to play in a benefit dart game. The fund-raiser made $722 for the Make-A-Wish Foundation, which grants wishes for terminally-ill children.

The dart players were teamed up in pairs, with partners chosen at random. Each pair then squared off against another team, until the top four teams were decided. Games of 501 and Cricket were played, and either of the first two games made up the rubber.

First place in the event went to Jim Muese and Tim Tower, who split the $88 first prize, while Dan Sullivan Jr. and Brian Michard held second place and split $50.

But the dart tournament wasn't the only fund-raiser that day.

Dart players took part in raffles and collections, but a popular event at the tournament was the "rotating dart board."

For $1 each, players got to throw three darts at a slowly-revolving dart board. All three darts had to be thrown before the board made a full rotation, and the score of the darts was tallied. Whoever threw the highest score got to split the pot, and Make-A-Wish got the rest. A new pool was started every couple of minutes.

Wilmington Stars of the Week

Jamie Campbell, Rob Torrani and Billy Tate, WHS Wrestling

These three guys performed extremely well this past weekend in the Cape Ann League Championship Meet. Campbell took a third place in the 160 pound weight class, while, Tate and Torrani both took fourth places in their 125 and 145 weight classes, respectively.

Ryan Haubner, Kevin Carroll and Jason Dango, WHS Hockey
All three of these players were very instrumental in the team's big 2-1 victory over Masconomet on Saturday which put them in first place as well as the seventh best team in division two according to the Boston Globe Coaches Poll.

Haubner scored the winning goal, but that was due to the tremendous hustle of teammate Kevin Carroll. Dango, on the other hand, played one if not his best game of his career coming up with 25 saves - with most of them outstanding.

WHS Basketball Cheerleaders

For their first competition, the team took fifth place out of 14 teams in the Cape Ann League Basketball Cheerleaders Competition this past Sunday at North Andover High School. The team also was voted by other coaches as the team with the most spirit.

Sixers just get by Suns

Sixers 25 Suns 24

This matchup between the two undefeated teams (6-0) lived up to all expectations in Tewksbury Boys Youth Basketball League play. Each and every player from both the Sixers and the Suns gave a superior effort in a battle where each team played excellent basketball.

The two squads were evenly matched both offensively and defensively as the lead changed hands several times. This game showcased high qualities of teamwork, competitiveness, maximum effort and good sportsmanship that represent all the positive values in participating in team sports. All the players, coaches and parents should be very proud of their involvement in this game.

Heat 42 Eagles

The Heat pulled this one out in the final minute of play. The Eagles were very tough offensively led by Michael Jordan's 13 points along with the defense and rebounding efforts of Brian Feener, Gary Jop and John Harrington. Justin Elliot (15 points), Matt Davis (11 points) and the outstanding hustle of David Scibilia and Amit Salker put this one in the win column for the Heat.

Blue Devils 31 Cavs 23

Despite a great team effort by the Cavs, the Blue Devils prevailed. Outstanding offensive games by Joe Tormame, Robbie Eagan, Brian Little and intense defense by Gerald Ianetta and Matt Mackay led the Cavs.

The Blue Devils had the fast break working as Peter Fortunato and John Scholl scored while Tom and Matt Mulligan played aggressive defense.

Hoyas 28 Kings 14

The Hoyas led this game throughout holding off a determined Kings team. Eric Stokowski, Brian Ford, David Bagley and Jeff Joyce were outstanding for the Kings in all phases of the game.

The Hoyas were relentless as Danny Igo, Alex Marcin, James

Nets 42 Nuggets 22

Danny Cioffi (four points) led the way on offense while Mike Giardina rebounded and this contest with Brandon Chamberlain (12 points) scoring often, Seth Reichsmeier rebounding and the hustle of Justin Leathers.

Easter Seal Volleyball games

Men and women all over Massachusetts are getting ready to earn 1996 Easter Seal Volleyball t-shirts by participating in the 16th annual Easter Seal Volleyball Games.

This year, games will be held on March 16 at Chelmsford High School in Chelmsford; on March 22, 23 and 24 at Reading Memorial High School in Reading and on March 24 at West Middle School in Andover.

The Games support Easter Seal services for men, women and children with disabilities. Any group can organize a team to play, with competition at every level from beginner to champion. Every team wins a trophy. Every player has the satisfaction of helping people with disabilities expand their independence.

Prizes include t-shirts, Converse athletic shoes, Red Sox tickets and volleyball gear. Games are supported by Century 21 and WB56. For help in forming a team or registration for the 1996 Easter Seal Volleyball Games, call Easter Seals at 617-482-3375.

"A message for the 90's"

SADD: Students Against Destructive Decisions

By PHYLLIS NISSEN

Students in Woburn and Wakefield experienced the new SADD last week through high comedy and serious drama.

In Woburn, at Woburn High, in the company of Valentino Willis and the Harlem Rockets Comedy Basketball Team.

In Wakefield, at Our Lady of Nazareth Academy, in the persons of Bill Meehan, the new Massachusetts SADD coordinator and Terri Meehan, the state SADD director of development.

The Meehans traveled to the city on Monday to support the SADD chapter at Woburn High, and to town on Friday to reactivate the chapter at Nazareth Academy. During their travels, they introduced both sets of students - and concerned community members in Woburn - to SADD's "message of the 90's" and expanded focus.

In an attempt to set limits on life in the faster lane, "Students Against Driving Drunk" has backed up, changed direction slightly, and shifted gears: SADD now stands for "Students Against Destructive Decisions."

It's not your old SADD anymore.

New logo: bright yellow, teal and purple.

New slogan: 'Keepin' It Alive.'

New focus: life, friendship, risk-taking.

Same old problems: life, friendship, risk-taking, driving, drinking, drugging, depression, death, violence, and how to enhance self-esteem.

Heavy on hoopla and healing. Punctuated with SADD laughter and tears of relief.

The basketball game at Woburn High for families, friends, students, and faculty drew a crowd of 1200, raising $1800 for Woburn High's SADD chapter.

The workshops at Nazareth Academy on teen depression and date rape stimulated silence followed by questions which evolved into debate, applause, and ongoing dialogue.

The Meehans have also done workshops for parents in Winchester, speaking about depression and alcoholism from the inside out, in language familiar to those who've been there.

"I'm an alcoholic and I suffer

Destructive decisions to S-4

NOT YOUR OLD SADD ANYMORE is the message being brought to several area students and families by Massachusetts SADD Coordinator Bill Meehan, who traveled to Woburn and Wakefield last week, and Winchester before that. Meehan and his wife Terri, the SADD director of development, spent Friday morning at Our Lady of Nazareth Academy in Wakefield as part of an effort to reactivate its SADD chapter, coordinated by Laura Bartholomew of Melrose. Here Meehan explains the shift from "Students Against Driving Drunk" to "Students Against Destructive Decisions" to several Nazareth students. In the front, from left to right, are: Kristen Walker of Medford, Andrea Anselmi of Stoneham, Kerri DeRoche of Melrose, Stacey Harper of Burlington, and Meehan. In the back, from left to right, are: Marisa LoGrasso of North Reading, Melissa Foley of Woburn, Jennifer Grasso of Wilmington, Rachel Pearlman of Malden, Sharane Connell of Lynnfield, Amy Walsh of Winchester, and Catherine James of Tewksbury.

Guitar duo at Linden Tree

The Linden Tree Coffeehouse continues its monthly concert series on February 17th. This double bill, featuring Julie Dougherty and Dewey Burns, will easily warm up a winter night. An opening set at 8 will present some surprise guests.

DOUGHERTY AND BURNS

Dewey Burns is a genre-bending guitar monster whose repertoire includes folk, blues, rags, and country tunes. He sings, growls, whispers, and laughs his way through originals, standards, and collectibles from some of the finest songwriters around the country. A mainstay on the coffeehouse circuit along the East Coast, he insists he'll keep on Deweying it until he can afford some real therapy. His first album titled "Wicked Ways" will hopefully be followed soon by "Wicked Ways Part II."

Julie Dougherty, another experienced performer, who has been singing for the past thirty years, mostly in New England but also in California, Texas, DC, Pennsylvania, and Nashville. In the mid-60's she played at the Unicorn Coffeehouse and King's Rook with her sister Kathy, in the 80's in a folk rock band with Richard Grace. Now she plays in a trio with her husband Woody Woodward on bass and Steve Sadler on guitar.

Ticket prices are $7. Donations of used but sturdy card tables may be used as barter. Those with Linden Tree sched-

Widow and Widowers seeking new members

For over a decade the Young Widows and Widowers, Ltd. group has offered support for those people who have lost a spouse to death for whatever cause or reason.

The group meets Monday evenings at 7 pm at the Wakefield/Lynnfield Methodist Church on Vernon Street in Wakefield. The facilitator is Ellen Cardwell who can be reached at 617-245-3984 for further information.

There is also a Hot-Line number which is 508-475-5556. This number will offer background information on the YWW, Ltd. functions.

"Support is a wonderful feeling at the time of such a devastating loss. One does not have to grieve alone," said Ms. Cardwell.

Kilroy to give portrait demonstration Feb. 14

The Reading Art Association is pleased to present noted artist, John Kilroy, on Wednesday, February 14, at 8 pm at the First Congregational Church, Sanborn Street, Reading. The public is invited to attend this demonstration. A donation of $3 is suggested for non members.

John Kilroy is a graduate of the Art Institute of Boston and has studied with several artists including eight years with Robert Bliss. He is a teacher of drawing, painting and sculpture through the Quincy and Braintree Art Associations. His work has been featured in such publications as Illustrators 24, Folio Magazine and American Art Review.

Mr. Kilroy has displayed his work through numerous exhibitions including the New York Art Expo, Jacob Javits Center, New York, the Colorado Springs Art Guild 45th National Juried Show, The Best and Brightest Show in Scottsdale, AZ, Tokyo Designers Gakuin College, the Print Regional Design Awards and the New York Society of Illustrators Annual Exhibition.

The Artist also has work in private as well as corporate collections such as Howard Johnsons Inc, McDonalds Corp, Yankee Magazine, Alaska Art and Cultural Museum and Charles Brown President of AT&T, New York. In addition, John Kilroy has print and limited edition prints produced by Hull Lifesaving Museum, Hingham Galleries LTD, and Alaska Art and Cultural Museum.

New England Quilt Museum features special program

The New England Quilt Museum presents All The Wonderful Things We Used To Do, an exhibition of the work of Rosemarie Voorhees, featuring 14 embroidered pictures and one wall hanging depicting the delight of childhood and family.

All The Wonderful Things We Used To Do will be on view January 12 - February 24 at the Museum, 18 Shattuck Street, Lowell, MA. The exhibit will be in the first floor gallery of the Museum. Hours are 10am - 4pm. Tuesday-Saturday; please call in advance for Sunday hours. The Museum is closed on Mondays and holidays. Admission is $4 for adults, $3 for students/seniors citizens; Museum members admitted free.

Handicapped parking is available in the building lot. For information, call 508-452-4207.

Embroidered pictures by Rosemarie Voorhees of Beverly, MA celebrate the times of her life. Voorhees grew up in Hall/Saale Germany. Her childhood memories of shopping with her mother in the town square are seen in her picture of the Marketplace in Halle-Salle, Germany 1930 which is distinguished by a Gothic church with a red tower. The marketplace is full of characters from the collector of the market fee who wears a long black coat and knee breeches, to the portly fishwives with their huge wooden tubs of live fish.

The New England Quilt Museum preserves, interprets, and celebrates American Quilting past and present.

Located in historic Lowell, Massachusetts, the heart of America's 19th century textile industry, the Museum offers changing exhibitions of contemporary and antique quilts.

About The Towns

by Phyllis Nissen

Listening in on Howard's script

No sooner said than ...?

At the first Malden Chamber of Commerce breakfast conference of 1996, new Mayor Richard Howard spoke - to a standing room only audience - about the issues he will address in the near future.

"I would like to link the business community with the school system," he said, as reported in the "Malden Evening News." "One great resource we have is our business community ... We have put together an excellent executive office and I'm looking forward to working with the Chamber for the next two years ... I will look at the downtown revitalization for the next couple of months because I want to improve the area ... 'to put a new face on Malden' (by promoting business)."

According to the "News," Howard is excited about the possibility of the Telecommunication Park being discussed, and feels that Malden would benefit a great deal from that and the Rowe Quarry project. "The Telecom Park is our primary area to focus on," he noted. "The three delegates will be going to the State House in February to make this a reality."

Howard has also, reports the "News," been consulting with officials about putting the city on-line.

Among those also present at the breakfast were Chamber President Dan Farmer, State Senator Richard Tisei, Chamber Executive Director Randi Holland, series coordinator Diane McKay of Rohn Tech', and Reps' William Reinstein and Anthony Giglio.

And the gas master is

...Robert J. Cavicchi of Reading who has been promoted to general manager of Boston Gas' Malden division which serves Burlington, Malden, Medford, Melrose, Reading, Stoneham, Winchester, and Woburn.

As general manager, Cavicchi is responsible for overseeing construction, maintenance and distribution of gas lines in the above towns. Boston Gas distributes natural gas to more than 450,000 homes and 35,000 commercial and industrial customers in 74 cities and towns in eastern and central Massachusetts.

A native of Arlington, Cavicchi is a graduate of Arlington High School and Boston University and has been employed by Boston Gas since he was but a young lad in 1977.

Remember Dan Cavicchi, master teacher, who is writing his thesis at Brown University on Bruce Springsteen's fans? Remember Sue Cavicchi, assistant chair of the Reading School Committee? Yes, they are.

At the top

Winchester Town Moderator John Sullivan, who recently received the Winchester Rotary Club's highest honor, a Paul Harris Fellow Award.

Paul Harris founded Rotary International. Sullivan is not even a Rotarian.

Harris based whether or not a business decision was "the right thing to do" on these questions, according to the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle": Is it the truth? Is it fair? Will it foster good will and better friendships? Is it beneficial to all concerned?

Sullivan, the president and CEO of Perland Environmental until a year and a half ago, stepped down from that position to enroll in Boston College Law School. Winchester town moderator for 18 years, always involved in one form of public service or another, he was a member of the Board of Selectmen for nine years before that, twice serving as chairman.

"About The Towns" covers recent events in the 13-town Middlesex East area. Spotlight on Seniors

New help for elderly

America is getting older. By 2000, 13 percent of the population will be senior citizens. By 2030, more than one in five Americans will be over 65. This so called "Graying of America," coupled with longer life expectancies, are driving the growth of a new long term care service known as assisted living or residential care.

Assisted living facilities started in this country in the mid 1980's and are modeled after similar programs for the elderly in Scandinavia. The assisted living philosophy promotes autonomy by enabling relatively healthy citizens to function independently in a protective home like setting.

"Unlike most senior housing that has been around for decades, assisted living facilities provide oversight by nursing staff and help with daily tasks like bathing and dressing if needed, but don't offer the level of medical care found in a nursing home," says Dr. Paul Willing, executive vice president of the American Health Care Association (AHCA).

AHCA publishes a consumer guide about residential care and assisted living facilities. For a free copy, send a 32 cent stamped, self addressed, business size envelope to: Thinking About a Residential Care or Assisted Living Facility?, American Health Care Association, 1202 L Street N.W. Planning advice

30 years of retirement

If you're like many Americans, you may not be financially prepared for what could be a lengthy retirement. The reason? Increased life expectancy and rising medical costs. This was recently reported by the American Society of Chartered Life Underwriters (CLU) and Chartered Financial Consultants (ChFC) in a special reprint titled 30 Years of Retirement, which provides a step by step plan of practical retirement planning advice.

The reprint may be arriving at just the right time. Today, many people quit work as early as 55 or 60. Thanks to advances in medicine, quite a few of them will live to a ripe old 85 or 90 or more. Instead of a few years of retirement, many Americans can look forward to 30 years of life after work.

Right now, six out of ten adults believe they can live on Social Security and their company pension after they stop work. In fact, Social Security and pensions cover only about one third of retirement expenses. Which means people have to save to make up the difference. Four in ten Americans have no program of saving for retirement. Meanwhile inflation will take its toll. Thirty years from now, it could cost $230,000 to maintain today's $100,000 lifestyle.

The longer you wait to start saving, the harder it gets. If you wait ten years, you'll have to save three times as much each month as you would have saved had you begun ten years earlier, says the American Society of CLU & ChFC.

Experts now feel that by the time you are 40, you need to have at least a plan worked out. Most people should get the help of a financial professional. That means sitting down with someone qualified to help you think it through. It could be someone with a CLU or ChFC designation, a certified public accountant, an attorney, a trust officer or someone else with training or experience.

A free copy of the reprint is available by writing to: "30 Years of Retirement," ASCLU, 270 S. Bryn Mawr Ave., Bryn Mawr, Pa. 19010-2195.

Dietary guidelines for older adults available

Current federal dietary guidelines for proper nutrition are based on the average American's healthy diet and do not take into account the changing needs of older adults.

In response, Sandoz Nutrition has adapted the nutritional food pyramid for people aged 55 and older and developed the brochure Discover the Link Between Aging, Diet and Health. This brochure has been designed to educate older adults about their special nutritional needs.

Discover the Link Between Aging, Diet and Health discusses the changing nutritional needs and dietary requirements of adults over 55 and answers commonly asked questions about adult health and nutrition. To receive a copy of the free brochure call Sandoz Nutrition at 1-800-588-5877 or write to:

SUMMER STREET SCHOOL AUCTION

By popular demand Lynnfield's Summer Street School Auction is returning again this year!

This PTO sponsored event will be held on Saturday, March 23, at the Wakefield Elks Hall. The PTO's goal is to raise $10,000 with all the proceeds benefiting Summer Street School programs for our children. The funds are used to enrich the needs of our school and its students in a large variety of ways.

The auction will feature a social evening complete with a live and silent auction as well as raffles.

Donations might include gift certificates, vacation-home get-aways, tickets to the theater or sporting events, legal or professional services, artwork or craft items. Baking a special birthday cake or other goodie have been popular items in past years.

There will also be an auction booklet containing business advertisement consisting of reasonably priced 1/4, 1/2 and full page ads.

The PTO requests that anyone in the private or business community who is interested in donating any type of item or service or advertising in the auction booklet, please contact Ellen Crawford at 334-2832 before February 15th.

FESTIVAL CHORUS BEGINS REHEARSALS

The Wakefield Festival Chorus is beginning rehearsals for its third concert of the 1995-96 season. Rehearsals will be held Wednesday evenings at 8:30 pm, beginning February 7, at First Parish Congregational Church, One Church Street, in Wakefield.

New members are welcome to join. The Concert is scheduled for Sunday, April 28, and the program will feature two major choral works, Cantata No. 27, "God The Lord is Sun and Shield" by Johann Sebastian Bach, and "Requiem" by Gabriel Faure.

The Wakefield Festival Chorus is a community chorus of 60 singers from several local communities including, Malden, Melrose, Lynnfield, Reading, Stoneham, and Wakefield.

The chorus, now in its eighth season, performs three concerts each year.

Past programs have included performances of, Mendelssohn's "Elijah," Haydn's "The Creation," Mozart's "Requiem," Dvorak's "Te Deum," and Brahms' "Requiem." The chorus is under the direction of Dr. Fred Broer who is music director at Wakefield's First Parish Church. For further information about the chorus and the rehearsals, call the church office at 617-245-1539.

DON BOSCO OFFERS TOURS

David Murray, director of admissions of Don Bosco School of Technology in Boston, has announced that all 8th graders and their parents are invited to tour the school by appointment at any time to see the excellent educational opportunities available in the academic and technology areas.

The school offers college prep and training in six technologies; Cabinetmaking, Construction Technology, Electricity, Drafting and Design, Electronics and Science Tech.

High school students seeking to transfer are also welcome to visit.

For more information, call Mr. Murray, 617-426-9457, ext. 144.

MEETING FOR STUDENTS ENTERING GRADES 4-12

The Exploration Summer Program is planning an informational meeting in the area to give boys and girls entering grades 4-12 and their parents, a chance to learn more about its three exciting summer enrichment programs.

The Senior program, for students entering grades 10-12, and the Intermediate Program for students entering grades 8-9, are held at Wellesley College; and the Junior Program, for students entering grades 4-5 and 6-7, is held on the campus of St. Mark's School. Both campuses are located within 25 miles of Boston and both day and residential spaces are available.

The meeting will be on Saturday, February 10 at 2 pm in Pendleton East Room 105 on the campus of Wellesley College in Wellesley. The meeting will last for approximately one hour.

BASIC PISTOL COURSE FOR WOMEN

AWARE (a charitable organization providing self-defense education for women) will present a course on pistol marksmanship. Topics will include safe firearms handling, gun operation, and pistol sports. Techniques that work for women will be emphasized. Students will exercise their new skills on the firing range under one on one supervision and will fire a variety of revolvers and semiautomatic pistols. The course will be taught by women who are certified firearms instructors, and it is open to men.

This course is commonly required by police chiefs for applicants seeking a License to Carry Firearms in Massachusetts. Upon completion women will receive a certificate that may be included in the permit application.

An FID card or a License to Carry Firearms is required for participation in this course. If you do not have either of these, call the number below for information. Bring a notepad, pen or pencil, and lunch.

Space is limited to 10. Please register with a $20 deposit mailed to the address below.

DATE: Saturday, February 24
TIME: sign in at 8:45 AM. Classroom and range work from 9 AM to 6 PM.

PLACE: Woburn Sportsmen's Association, Bedford.

COST: $50 (includes books, materials, and ammunition).

The state certification exam will be given on Tues., April 2. All meetings will be at 7 pm. Call 508-250-8251 for more info.

WOMEN IN BUSINESS PRESENTS PROGRAM

North Shore Women In Business invites all to attend its next breakfast meeting on Thursday, Feb. 15, at the Towne

"M.E.'s for You"

Lyne House, Route 1, Lynnfield. The cost is $8 for members who reserve in advance, $10 for members who pay at the door and $12 for guests. Registration is at 7:15 am and the program begins at 7:30 am.

Louise Cramer, owner of Career Matters, will be the guest presenter. Cramer is a career consultant, trainer, singer and artist. She often helps clients discover their own essence through metaphor. She never fails to be inspired by the courage and creativity of other women. Her goals for 1996 are to share what she's learned and to learn more deeply from what others share.

For more information on upcoming events or membership, please call North Shore Women In Business at 508-532-1175.

WOMENS SUPPORT GROUP FORMED

A midlife women's support group, "Women on the Verge of Becoming Themselves," is forming at the Arlington Wellness Alliance.

The six week program, led by licensed therapists, will help women deal with work, family and relationships. Focusing on strengths rather than problems, the group will explore the possibilities for change as goals shift at midlife.

For dates, fees and other information call 617-648-0674.

NSCC FOUNDATION AWARDS SCHOLARSHIPS

North Shore Community College Foundation will award 70 scholarships totaling more than $50,000 to NSCC students and recent high school graduates this year.

The scholarships, made possible with donations from local businesses and individuals, are available to all NSCC students whether they are full time, part time, evening or day students. Awarded on the basis of academic achievement, community service and financial need, most scholarships are financial awards of $500. Others, such as the $1,500 Henry Cabot Lodge Scholarship and the $1,000, Gorton's Scholarship reserved for Cape Ann Residents, are renewable.

NSCC's Foundation was established in 1983 to provide assistance to students through scholarships and through contributions to existing funds for college equipment, facilities and

Students Against Destructive Decisions

From S-1 from clinical depression," says Bill Meehan to an audience of students. "I'll never be cured of either ... I'm alive today and very grateful to be talking with you guys, doing what I do best."

"Here's the deal: I have to take chemicals to control my mood and since I know that about myself, I can do something about it."

Having traveled to almost 40 states and three Canadian provinces as well as throughout

Massachusetts, Bill Meehan - a drug and alcohol counselor - has worked with Massachusetts middle and high school students for more than 20 years.

His workshop on depression and suicide deals with deciphering signals: myths and facts, questions to consider when evaluating emergency risks, depression versus sadness, how to recognize signs of depression and suicide risk, and what to say if someone you know talks of suicide.

Depression, he tells kids, is anger turned inward: if you recognize it, you can begin to cure it.

"I'm not really a salesperson," says Terri Meehan to an audience of students, "but I am a real person. What I do want to say is 'think for yourself' and 'think about yourself.' ... I'm an alcoholic. That's why it's taken me longer to figure things out."

After 10 years in the business world, Terri Meehan has gotten down to the business of doing what she loves most: working with students. SADD's state director of development for a year now, she has worked closely for almost five years with alcoholics and drug addicts, guiding them through the various stages of addiction to recovery.

"I'm a victim of rape and domestic violence," she says. "Been there. Seen it. Done it. Unfortunately."

Her workshop on date rape covers "working definitions" of rape, statutory rape, consent involving alcohol, sexual assault, battering, assault, harassment; why men rape, questions to ask about those men, and how to steer clear of them.

"It does happen," says one participant in Terri's workshop. "It just happens. Now you know. And you should keep yourself out of the situation."

The new SADD offers the following programs through community and school health fairs as well as school assemblies and workshops: a school visit, directed at staying drug-free and staying in school, followed by an evening with the Harlem Rockets; performances, focusing on substance abuse prevention, by The Improbable Players or The Periwinkle National Theater Group; assemblies and workshops on teenage depression and suicide or on date rape.

The Massachusetts SADD program could well become a model for the country. "We've spent the last year reorganizing, establishing a data base, and contacting schools with or without SADD chapters," says Bill, Massachusetts' first statewide coordinator. "The national board and executive director decided it was time to back up and look at our focus. When we focus exclusively on drinking and driving,

Woodchips

ANTHONY MANCONI

This, "Chip" is in grateful acknowledgement to a wonderful Jewish lady and family friend of many years ago, the late Mrs. Ida Kirshtein. She repeatedly told my father that his philosophy was, "Wrong, Wrong, 'Wrong.' EDUCATION comes FIRST," eating is the second priority!"

I humbly and prayerfully thank her for bombarding my father with hundreds of reasons to send members of my family to high school, and then, on to college. Because of her eternal insistence there are numerous doctors, lawyers, teachers and other professionals among my immediate family and cousins.

That Folks is one of the many reasons why I love the Jewish people, who consider "Education" second only to their religious faith.

At my Aunt Nora's garden party years ago, she mentioned out loud one by one the many professionals, then added with a wry smile, "of course you all know the only failure is the Woodchipper." To everyone's credit no one laughed.

Benjamin Franklin said, "Education will never be more expensive than ignorance."

A "Girdle" is an "Accessory" after the "Fat."

I remember when Joe Aldo and I took a short cut going to high school and, going through a field, we climbed over a fence where I tore the seat of my pants on the barbed wire. I didwhat we're really talking about is alcohol; and when we deal with alcohol, themes like depression, suicide, violence, and date rape come up. A lot more needs to be done in the schools."

"We're 'keepin' it alive," adds Terri, "the program and the kids."

The Meehans welcome your questions and invite you to preview any SADD assemblies or workshops. For more information, call them at 617-558-7233 (SADD) or contact SADD advisors Joe Maltacea at Woburn High (617-937-8210) and Laura Bartholomew at Nazareth Academy (617-245-5210).

"What we are talking about is taking care of each other," says Bill Meehan.

"SADD," says Terri Meehan, "is a warm place to be."

n't have a safety pin and Joe didn't have one either. We continued on to school anyway. I entered my classroom late and Mrs. Ellison looked up at the clock then at me and said, "I see you're little behind this morning Anthony."

"You, you wouldn't have!" I blurted out, "If Joey had a safety pin!"

Kathy puts on so much cold cream and body oil every night, she "slides" out of bed every morning.

You don't have to be a dairy farmer to know that a cow is milked from the "Udder" side.

Folks, the reason we don't see any Cowboy Pictures with singers like Gene Autry and Roy Rogers is because they can't find anyone in Hollywood who can "Ride a horse," "Sing" and "Shoot," all at the same time.

MOVIES

"The Juror", Short Takes

The Juror starring Demi Moore, Alec Baldwin, Joseph Gordon-Levitt, Anne Heche, James Gandolfini. Directed by Brian Gibson. Screenplay by Ted Tally, based on the book by George Dawes Green. Produced by Irwin Winkler, Rob Cowan. Rated R.

This is deja vu all over again. It's only February, but already we've had a couple of movies based on women in danger. The difference between this flick and most, however, is that The Juror is especially nasty and mean spirited. Demi Moore plays Annie, a sculptor and single mom, happy to fulfill her civic duty and sit on a jury. She doesn't even care when it turns out to be a sensational murder trial involving a Mafia kingpin (Tony Lo Bianco.)

The movie takes on a sleazy, sadistic edge when Moore's character realizes that her son, played with realistic spunkiness by Joseph Gordon-Levitt, is in immense danger if she doesn't find the mafia don not guilty. Up to that point, the movie had seductively involved us in the chilling machinations used by the mafioso to help nail down an acquittal for their jailed leader.

Watching from the courtroom, Eddy (James Gandolfini) follows Moore home, all the while talking to Alec Baldwin, who is already in her home gathering info. They assume she's the one juror to lean on for the verdict they want, guessing she'll do anything to keep her son safe. It is effectively creepy to watch two men quickly uncover all aspects of this woman's life, easily entering her home and learning her daily routine.

The minute Baldwin, known as the Teacher, reveals his designs for Annie, the movie falls into a deep pit from which is never emerges. It becomes one long exercise in which the Teacher tortures Annie, or her friends. There are several episodes which are truly sick, and from a cinematic view complete failures, because they don't scare as much as disgust.

Casting is a problem at least in regard to Moore. Perky, bright-eyed and sexy in her sloppy clothes, you just know she is eventually going to rally to her own defense. For not one moment do you think this movie is going to end with her as a victim.

Baldwin, on the other hand is quite right for his role. Dark, handsome, menacing, he looks perfect and is so threatening that his sidekick, Eddy, comes across as a nice guy and not the hired killer he is. In fact, Baldwin's psycho-sexual character is the most interesting aspect of the film. He's weird, but brilliant, and has a real Svengali complex regarding Annie. The script is just too weak to support such a character without succumbing to clichés. In fact, it is too weak to warrant audience support.

SHORT TAKES

White Squall has an amazing storm sequence that is so visually mesmerizing you may have trouble forgetting it. The rest of the film, however, is much easier to shake off. Jeff Bridges is the skipper of a sort of Outward Bound sailing vessel in the early 1960's. The interaction with the troubled kids is ho-hum familiar before the movie just changes course during the last quarter, becoming a rehearsed courtroom drama. In other words, not much here except for the fabulous storm. Rated PG-13. **

ANNIE, (DEMI MOORE,) confronts "The Teacher" (Alec Baldwin) about his true identity in the psychological thriller, The Juror.

Dead Man Walking is intelligent, brilliantly written and fleshed out with hard-hitting performances. In other words, it's about as good as you can get. Go with a friend, you'll want to discuss the lingering impact of this vivid work by writer/director Tim Robbins. Rated R. ****

Kim Piccolo 1996 Beginner Miss Majorette of Mass.

On January 7, in Lexington, Kim Piccolo of Burlington won the title of 1996 Beginner Miss Majorette of Massachusetts where contestants are judged on solo twirling, strut and modeling routines. This win gives Kim the right to compete at the 1996 Nationals in July at the University of Notre Dame.

The title of Miss Majorette is the highest honor that a twirler can win in a State, Regional or National Event.

At the Massachusetts State Baton Twirling Championships that were held in November in Townsend, Kim came away with a first place win in Advanced Military March and Best Appearing. She placed second in Intermediate Strut, Beginner Solo and Beginner Flag Baton, and third in Advanced Modeling, and Beginner Two Baton.

Kim is a member of the State Champion Suburbanettes Twirl Team of Chelmsford, under the direction of Maureen and Kelly Dunn. Besides, competition, Kim will be marching with the Suburbanettes in the Annual St. Patrick Day Parade in New York.

The Suburbanettes are also taking a trip in June to Bermuda and will be performing at City Hall in Hamilton and various locations during the week. The Suburbanettes also march in numerous parades and have a recital scheduled for June 1st.

Kim is currently a 6th grade student at Marshall Simonds Middle School in Burlington. Kim's other interests include dancing, girl scouts and various sports.

Kim is the daughter of Sharon and Nick J. Piccolo and sister of Nick T. Piccolo.

Reading does it again ... in Winchester

'In record numbers'

Reading High contributed the largest number of junior volunteers to Winchester Hospital last summer, according to Director of Volunteer Services Marie Johnson and Junior Volunteer Coordinator Nancy McKersie.

Johnson and McKersie are so pleased that they sent the following letter to Reading High Principal Rena Mirkin:

"We are enclosing a list of your students who have been Junior Volunteers during the past academic year and this summer," they note. "The number of hours they have contributed through August, 1995 is listed. We hope you will note the hours on the students' records."

"These young people are very important to the hospital. Over 163 Juniors contributed 6300 hours of service during June, July and August ... a record number of Juniors and hours!"

"What do they do? Most are in the Messenger Service transporting patients and running errands from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m. daily. Others assist in the Coffee Shop and about fifteen other departments in the hospital itself or in outlying areas in Reading and Wilmington. A large number of Juniors are used in the summer months because the adult volunteers take needed vacations.

"We thank you for encouraging your students to volunteer. We are most enthusiastic about them and their willingness to help. They lend a special spirit to the hospital, and we hope they gain some knowledge in return."

Congratulations to

The following Reading High students volunteered between September 1994 and September, 1995 at Winchester Hospital in a variety of capacities, with Amy Haskell leading the group with a total of 300 volunteer hours.

Student volunteers are Jill Anderson (32 hours), Kevin Barry (108 hours), Joseph Cain (45 hours), Ellen Cantillon (29 hours), Ryan Carroll (28 hours), Julie Condon (56 hours), Rachel Condon (64 hours), Katie DeMita (30 hours), Betsy Fernino (15 hours), Matt Ferry (42 hours).

And Elizabeth Flatley (10 hours), Lesley Gange (25 hours), Laura Gerety (30 hours), Stephanie Gonzales (20), Emily Guptile (28), Cathy Hammond (55), Meaghan Hardy (32), Kelly Harrigan (24), Amy Haskell (300!), Jennifer Jackson (20), Liz Logsdon (21), Erika Louanis (40).

And Ruthanne Macaulay (162), Lori Massa (61), Sarah

Matathia (26), Joanne Melkonian (204), Adam Musto (131), Carol Natale (25), Erin O'Neill (94), Julie O'Rourke (64), Katie Perella (24), Connie Petruziello (104), Stephanie Rio (20), Sarah Samson (90), Kara Secher (32).

And Kate Selfridge (28), Meaghan Shaw (35), Chris Sordillo (14), Kate Tavano (16), Jennifer Weadick (42), Stephanie Whalen (24), Kristin Butler (79), Jaime DuPont (66), Lyndsay Genzler (74), and Amy Gallagher (63).

'How much is too much?'

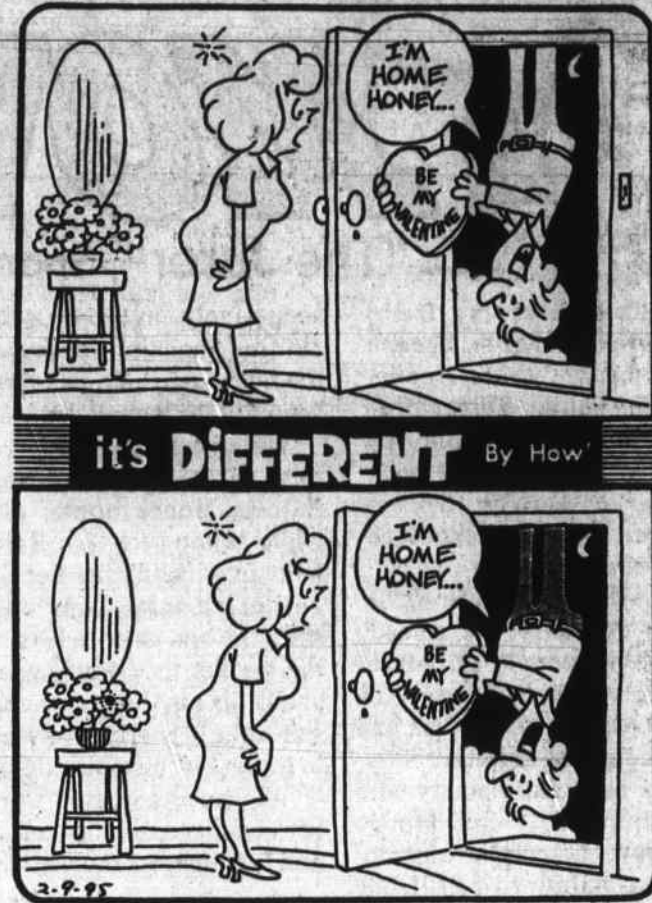

"Competition plays a role in the lives of all of our teens," notes the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"While competition can have a positive, motivating effect, parents often wonder how to help their families deal with the pressures and disappointments that are inevitable in our competitive culture."

To soften the effects of that competitive edge, Winchester's Parent to Parent, High School Parent Faculty Association, and the En Ka Society recently cosponsored a Families First workshop at the high school.

The topic was "How much is too much? The Pluses and Minuses of Competition for Teenagers." Led by parenting specialist Candelaria Silva, the workshop focused on helping parents maximize the beneficial effects of healthy competition and recognize and minimize the negative effects of unhealthy competition.

If you'd like to read about your favorite school, student or teacher in "School Notes," please send school newsletters and other relevant information to Phyllis Nissen, "School Notes," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867. We welcome student writing.

Respite Care Providers

Per-Diem
Days, Eves., Sleep-over nights & Weekends
As a part of our new Senior Health Partnership Respite Care program, we are currently looking for qualified individuals to provide supervision, companionship, motivational and supportive assistance to seniors and/or family caregivers who are in need of time away from the ill, disabled or dependent person in the home. This position does not require hands-on personal care. Scheduled hours are based upon client needs and provider availability.

To support the needs of our clients, you must have strong written and verbal communication skills with at least one (1) year experience providing care for an ill, disabled or dependent individual. These positions require sensitivity to the needs of senior and family caregivers. You must provide your own transportation. Individuals selected for these positions will be required to attend 30 hours of classroom orientation and complete 200 hours of field placement training. Individuals hired will be paid for time spent in orientation.

If you are interested in Respite Care Provider opportunities, or are interested in utilizing this service, please contact Donna Murray, Director of Respite Care at (617) 756-4756 or Joanne LaPlante, Human Resources Representative at (617) 756-2164. Or submit a completed application to Donna Murray at the Senior Health Partnership located at Baldwin Park 1, 12 Alfred Street, Suite 307, Woburn, MA 01801. We are an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Automatic garage doors for safety

Garage door system safety is no accident, experts say - it should be an automatic decision on the part of every homeowner, especially those with children. A garage door is the largest moving object in the home. Improperly adjusted, it can exert deadly force when it closes.

Fortunately, there are steps you can take to prevent a garage door system accident from happening, say the experts at the Stanley Door Systems, which makes quality garage door openers and garage door systems. In a free safety poster, which it distributed to 35,000 pediatricians and 5,000 day care centers nationwide, the company advises parents to teach their children about the dangers of playing under garage doors and to keep all controls out of their reach.

Other tips:
•Test your garage door opener's reversing feature monthly. With the door open, place a one must reverse readily and open the door when it strikes the wood. If not, door should be repaired or replaced.

Test the reversing feature on your garage door every month.

inch thick piece of wood, laid flat, on the floor in the door's path at approximately the center of the door. The door opener •Test the force setting by holding up the bottom of the door as it closes. If the door does not reverse, the force is excessive and needs adjusting. A qualified technician should be called to adjust, repair and replace any garage door parts.

•Periodically test the balance of your door. Start with the door closed. Disconnect the garage door opener release mechanism so you can operate the door by hand. You should be able to lift the door smoothly and with little resistance. It should stay open around three to four feet above the floor. If it does not, it is out of balance. Have it adjusted by a professional.

•Look at the garage door springs, cables, rollers, pulleys and other door hardware for signs of wear each month.

Rollers and hinges of a garage door require periodic lubrication. Use a spray silicone of lightweight household oil according to the instructions in your owner's manual.

For a free copy of the garage door opener safety poster and brochure, write: Stanley Safety Program, P.O. Box 1416, Birmingham, MI 48012-1416.

Safe homes for children DeWolfe forms alliance with Home for Little Wanderers

At its annual convention, DeWolfe New England, announced that it is forming an alliance with New England Home for Little Wanderers. In this partnership, DeWolfe will provide financial, physical, and in-kind support, as well as increased visibility to the New England Home, a non-profit organization that works to find safe homes for children.

Upon making the announcement, Richard DeWolfe, chairman of DeWolfe New England said, "DeWolfe is pursuing an alliance with New England Home for Little Wanderers to provide it with a continued source of new income and to extend its services and visibility throughout the region."

As DeWolfe's primary charitable organization, New England Home for Little Wanderers will receive corporate contributions, volunteer support from DeWolfe employees, financial assistance for events and new projects, as well as increased visibility. A display of the New England Home will be visible at each of DeWolfe's 60 offices, and the New England Home will receive some on-air promotion during the real estate firm's television programs on channel 3 and WCVB-TV.

"DeWolfe and the New England Home for Little Wanderers share a similar mission - to find a safe home for their clientele," said Nancy Bruett, executive director of the New England Home for Little Wanderers. "We are thrilled that DeWolfe is eager to support our organization. Their contributions will be invaluable as we look for new resources in new markets."

The DeWolfe Companies, Inc. is a provider of integrated homeownership services including residential real estate services, mortgage banking, and specialized services. The Company offers these services throughout eastern Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Connecticut, southern Maine, and northern Rhode Island.

FREE OVER THE PHONE MARKET EVALUATION WITH A GUARANTEE!

If you are thinking of selling your home within the next 12 months, why not get an approximation of the market value of your property... right over the phone?

It's simple... call our office at 944-6060 and answer a few questions about the type, style, lot size, taxes and amenities of your home. With this information we will do a Market Analysis and call you back promptly.

Of course, a more accurate analysis of your property's value will require us to do an interior inspection of your home to check for the quality of finishes, room layout and several other factors.

This inspection has several other advantages too! Primarily we can advise you about what repairs to do or not to do! Often owners think they must do a lot more work than they really need to... but it's important to do the right things that will attract the buyer's attention!

A FIX-UP GUARANTEE

If we can't recommend after our inspection at least three fix-up ideas to you that you haven't thought of, we'll take $100 off the commission when the property sells!

estate, and the CRS (Certified Residential Specialist) designation after completing the required courses offered by Residential Sales Council and demonstrating specific expertise in applied residential real estate marketing. Less than three percent of all Realtors hold this designation.

She is a graduate of Merrimack College and is a former vice president of the Bank of Boston. A frequent recipient of sales awards, Mary Ann is deeply committed to service and professionalism.

She and her husband, Bob, have two children, Emily and Michael, and are Reading residents. Mary Ann is also a member of the Eastern Middlesex Board of Realtors and the National Association of Realtors.

Myrna Tichenor and Jane Watson congratulated

Colonial Manor Realty, its owners, Bobbie Botticelli and Rick Nazzaro, and associates, wish to congratulate Myrna Tichenor and Jane Watson on their three-year anniversary with the company. Both Myrna, with over six years of experience, and Jane, with over 19 years of experience, offer their customers and clients top-notch professional services, and always serve them with knowledge, enthusiasm and a smile. Owners Bobbie Botticelli and Rick Nazzaro say, "The two women are dependable, honest, hardworking and caring-assets to the company and to the homebuyers and sellers that rely upon them. We're proud to have them on our team." Each are members of the Eastern Middlesex Association of Realtors, the Massachusetts Association of Realtors, the National Association of Realtors, and the Bay State Multiple Listing Service. Myrna holds the coveted GRI (Graduate, Realtor Institute) designation, is a participant in the Reading Community Singers and North Reading's Book Worms. Many may know Jane from her affiliations with Reading's St. Athanasius Parish. Myrna resides in Stoneham. Jane lives in Reading with husband, Larry, and son, Garrett.

For the best in Real estate services, give Myrna or Jane a call, (508) 664-5857 or visit them at the offices of Colonial Manor Realty at 133 Park Street in North Reading (next to the Flint Library.)

Bea Maw named Broker of Month

Rita Manuel, senior vice-president and manager of the Stoneham-based regional office of Hunneman & Company-Coldwell Banker, has named Bea Maw as Broker of the Month in recognition of her outstanding sales performance for the month of December.

Listed in "Who's Who in American Real Estate," Bea has served the North Shore community for over 25 years. She holds a broker's license and is a Notary Public.

Long active in community activities, Bea is a past president of St. Benedict's Guild of Bishop Fenwick and is a member of the Massachusetts Catholic Women's Guild.

She is also a member of the National Association of Realtors, the Massachusetts Association of Realtors, the Eastern Middlesex Association of Realtors and the Baystate Association of Realtors.

She and her husband, John, reside at Sheffield Heights, Saugus, and are the parents of three children.

RE/MAX Top Achievers, Inc. congratulates Mary Ann Quinn, CRS, GRI, on her appointment to State Treasurer of the Women's Council of Realtors. The Women's Council of Realtors is a professional organization committed to continued education of fellow Realtors.

Mary Ann also holds the GRI (Graduate Realtors Institute) designation for continuing education in all aspects of real

Baked Apple French Toast

3 large green apples
1 stick (1/2 cup) butter
1/2 cup or more brown sugar
12 oz. cream cheese
12 slices firm bread, any flavor
8 eggs
1 quart milk Makes 8 servings
2 tbsp vanilla
Cinnamon to taste

Set rack in lower third of oven and preheat to 350 degrees. Butter a 13-by-9-inch baking pan. Core and cut the apples into this wedges, leaving the skin on.

In a skillet, melt the butter with brown sugar and 1 tablespoon water. Add the apples and cook, stirring for two to three minutes. Transfer to the baking dish and let cool.

Cut the cream cheese into cubes and arrange evenly over the apples. Cut the slices of bread in half diagonally and layer over the apples to cover the whole dish.

In a large mixing bowl, beat together eggs, milk and vanilla. Pour the egg mixture over the bread, taking care to dampen all of the bread. Sprinkle with cinnamon. Bake for 40 to 50 minutes, until golden and puffed.

REAL ESTATE

Your home: Q & A

What are some common danger signals to look for in my roof shingles?

Nothing causes more aggravation and expense than a leaking roof. Treasured possessions can be ruined, furniture and carpeting soaked, and family routine upset for days.

Homeowners can help prevent leaks before they begin with regular spring and fall inspections of their shingle roofs.

Some common danger signals to look for include damaged shingles, roof bare spots, loosened nails, deteriorated flashings, and granules washing off the roof.

If some of these problems exist, the homeowner may want to consider re-roofing. Not only will damage from leaks be avoided, but also a new roof will add to the beauty and value of the home.

To help make the job go smoothly, the makers of Manville fiber glass shingles have published an illustrated, pocket-size guide that provides quick, easy-to-follow steps for re-roofing, as well as putting a roof on a new home.

The guide lists the tools and materials that will be needed, and how to prepare the roof before the shingles are applied. With simple sketches, it explains how to install the new shingles, types of fastening methods, and how to handle flashing, valleys and even dormers.

You can obtain a free copy of "How to Apply Manville Fiber Glass Shingles," No. RF-270B, from your building supply dealer, or by writing to Manville
